WASHINGTON SUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 12.—Will the United States in its championship of the obligations of international law be able to open the door to peace in Europe?

With this possibility, however remote in mind, administration officials and foreign diplomats here are waiting anxiously for the response Germany will make to Erneident Wilson's rejoinder now in the hands of the Berlin Foreign Office. If Germany agrees to abide by international law henceforth in the submarine warfare on commerce life President will be encouraged to take another step toward the great daysets he has in view.

bringing influence to bear upon the belligerents to end the war.

GERMANY WANTS PEACE.

Germany is ready to make peace now for the reason that Germany is victorious in the war at this time. Germany occupies Belgium and Northern France. Save in a part of Eastern Prussia, no invader has set foot on Germany and Austria has been stemmed and the Ctar's armies have been badly crippled. Premyel has been regained from the Russians, who seem about to relax their hold on Lemberg.

Russia is short of ammunition and unless Constantinople soon falls, permitting the transmission of var supplies through the property of the constantinople soon falls, permitting the transmission of var supplies through the president will be unable to resume a strong offensive for some months.

MR. WILSON'S PROGRAMME.

It developed this west that the President is proceeding with the following programme in mind:

(1) To induce Germany to conform to the rules at international law in the production of its submarine warfard.

(2) To induce Great Britain to conform to international law in the maintenance of fite blockade of Germany.

(3) To induce both Germany and Great Britain to a truce for the discussion of piece proposals.

Germany is aware that the President is easer to carry out this programme and that knowledge may affect declaively the attitude Berlin will assume toward Mr. Wison's indistence upon the American demands.

ROME (Italy) June 12. — Two American women who have arrived here after traveling through Central Europe give interesting details of their observations.

People persist in repeating that if we would stop providing arms the war would be over in a month. "Germany is already divided into two camps. The liberal element, headed by Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, desires to release Belgium and possibly code Alsace and Lorraine to France in order to make peace and gain Germany's reinstatement in the syst of the civilized world. The reactionaries, headed by the Prussian junkers, who have already seen that fighting Russia is doing harm to the common cause of despotism, desire to make a separate peace with Russia and crush England and France and possibly America. This party has finally seen that the true essence of the war is the conflict of ideals."

SENTIMENT IN AUSTRIA.

Strange as it may seem the same bitterness now felt toward America does not exist in Austria. Americans are well treated at the hotels and are not subjected to insults in the streets. The hatred in Austria is almed almost tense that there is hardly room left for bitterness towards any other nation.

the danger of a German-American nation from this danger. This for the sake of internal political reasons, in order to win for himself friends among the peace advocates, among the German-Americans, the Irish and, the Hebrews, perhaps looking ahead to the next Presidential election.

"As for Mr. Wilson, he seems to hope to play the role of arbiter between Germany and England, and through his great success in foreign politics, to strengthen his position at home."

Referring to Bobert Lansing, the Secretary of State ad interim, the Definite statements as to the attitude of the German government with respect to the note are not yet available, but in circles which, while themselves not officially responsible, are often good barometers of the sentiment in responsible quarters, the note seems to have made a distinctly favorable impression and is believed to offer the possibility of negotiations on which a satisfactory settlement might be reached.

Vossische Zeitung hall the second American note as opening the way for further negotiations between Germany and the United States, which (Continued from First Page.) both profess to believe will straighten out the situation. The papers admit the note contains little that is new, but

By putting this definite demand, the United States has irrevocably committed itself. Refusal on the part of the German government—and the language of the German press makes it difficult to believe in the possibility of anything but a refusal—can no longer be accepted with sorrowful acquiescence. The United States is pledged to action of some sort, though by no means warlike action. It all depends on the Germans."

Continuing, the Standard argues that the Germans, now that their food supplies have been proved ample, can afford to suspend the submarine blockade.

offer the possibility of negotiations on which a satisfactory settlement might be reached.

The conciliatory tone of the note apparently has evoked a responsive attitude here. Individuals, who in the earlier stages of the negotiations displayed stiff-necked adherance to their own views, which made discussion at most impossible, are now willing to talk of compromises in which the compromise would not be all on one side.

The official viewpoint probably can be correctly appraised after conferences between the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bthmann-Hollweg; the foreign secretary, Herr von Jagow, and representatives of the army and Admirality, the navy and General Staff. The Emperor, it is believed, will speak the final word.

Yet, in spits of her strenuous life on the stage the average actress has a cleate clean, velvey, healthful, youthful complexion off the stage. Why Largely because she must and does use creams nightly to take off the make-up. This nightly use of cream with such good results gave the idea for the use of Pompelan Night Cream.

cans as distinct from other United States citizens.

Commenting upon Mr. Bryan's appeal, the evening edition of the New York Herald today said:

"It is a cause for rejoicing that the ex-Secretary of State takes refuge in this open statement to the German-Americans. Perhaps our government would have fared better if it likewise had incidentally seen its way to such an expression of views to its critics among our ranks.

"The arguments which Mr. Bryan dishes up will not be agreed to by most citizens of German descent, but the open discussion of the various points can only be useful.

"In view of the many bonds of blood that link the German population of our country with the old fatherland, a war with the United States would be regarded practically as fratricial, as a calamity which, if in any way possible, must be avoided. Mr. Bryan may rest assured of this." [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] SACRAMENTO (Cal.) June 12:-The Governor's office today gave out an opinion from Atty.-Gen. Webb to

The measure gives to make the till the measure which the bill. The measure gives to medical colleges and laboratories of scientists where vivisection is being practiced to ascertain if animals are being tortured.

Gen. Webb, commenting on the measure, says: "The unrestricted and unconstitutional right of search provided for in this proposed enactment is in direct conflict with constitutional provisions and if it be valid, the victories won against governmental tyranny would have been in vain."

Every bill passed by the Legislature must be signed by mininght to night by the Governor or it will not become a law.

BLAST CAUSE OF DEATHS.

Three Men Killed in Mine at Nevada City From Explosion in one of the Low Levels.

[BY A. P. Moult will.]

NEVADA CITY (Cal.) June 12.—A delayed blast probably was the cause of the death of W. C. Hunter, mining engineer of San Francisco, J. H. Sieling of Hackersville, Pa. foreman of the mine, and Samuel Guernsey who were found dead last night in the tunnel of the Columbia mine, twenty miles northeast of here. The three men entered the tunnel after a blast was explosed to take samples of the ore. Mining men said the bruised and manayed condition of the bodies was caused by an explosion. The accident occurred at the 425 foot level.

leaders after the triumph against Victoriano Huerta, which he attributes in part to "personal ambitions of some persons," but declares that certain principles were involved for which "we are still fighting."

The Villa note charges that "false ideas, for mercenary purposes, diffused by those who sought to retain power indefinitely without laws, reduced us to the most outrageous anarchy in the capital:" that it was "the lack of a sense of responsibility by Senor Carranza that brought us to strained relations with countries friendly to us."

The note reviews the request of the chiefs of the Division of the North and different army corps, backed by a great portion of the civil population, that the First Chief of the Constitutionalists act as President ad interim, open courts and call a general election to organize a constitutional civil government. It declares that instead a military convention was convoked and reviews the Aguascalientes convention and subsequent events.

"We believed this system of government would ruin our country," says the note, and insisted that any important reforms should be made by a congress elected by the people.

Villa declares he denied the authority of Carranza because that chief prevented the fulfillment of the revolutionary programme, "the restoration of our supreme law." He admits there is no authority recognized in every part of Mexico but attributes that fact to "the result of civil war such as might occur in any nation."

TWO HOMES, TWO WIVES. A

DENVER MILLIONAIRE ACCUSED BY WOMAN IN SUIT.

Case Now Being Heard in County Boyd of Kansas City Home State

(BY DIRECT WINE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCR.)

LITTLETON (Colo.) June 12.—Joseph W. Boyd, reputed Denver millionaire and president of the Kansas City Home State Bank, who obtained a divorce from his first wife, Mrs. Nello May Boyd, September 7, 1911, without her knowledge, as she contends in a suit now being heard in the Arapahoe county court to set aside the divorce, maintained two homes with two wives at the same time, Mrs. Boyd said this morning.

Neither Mrs. Nello May Boyd nor Mrs. Josephine Elliott Boyd, wife No. 2, knew that the head of the irrespective households was leading a double life, Mrs. Boyd asserted.

Since Boyd was granted his divorce in the Arapahoe county court in 1911 he has continued to live with her and when away from Idaho Springs, where she makes her home, he corresponded with her regularly, she says.

In support of her contention that she never knew she had been divorced by Boyd she introduced in evidence yesterday thirty-two letters, which Boyd wrote to her between the time he obtained the alleged fradulent divorce and her discovery a month ago that she was only one of two wives, who believed they were married to Boyd.

Here are extracts from some of the letters from Boyd to Nello May Boyd, introduced in evidence:

"I have broken every commandment but murder and I doubt if some of my acts have not 1 to that also. And I am paid by a higher power when the world did not catch me at it."

With the aid of others Mrs. Pope a went to a near-by store and telephoned her brother. Bishop Glass, hurried to the scene and called a special ambulance from the Sisters' Hospital, to which place Mrs. Pope was hurriedly taken. Here an X-ray photograph was taken of her injured hip. It was found to be severely bruised, but no bones were broken. Mrs. Pope was suffering from the shock.

Because of her 5-month-old baby at home, she demanded to be taken at once to her residence. She was resting easily when found there last night.

"Our car stopped at Eighth and Broadway," she said. "Something seemed wrong with the mechanism. The motorman and conductor got out and seemed to be fixing it. One of them picked up an iron bar and put it somewhere underneath the car. He remarked to his companion: I don't think that will do, but we will have to try it."

"Right then I had a premonition something would happen, and when I saw that other car crashing into us, I thought the end had come. It was an awful shock."

Few of the passengers on the Pico street car were injured, because they were almost to the curb.

Gentlemen: I have 120 acres of land at Delta, Pahvant Valley, in what I believe to be one of the finest farming secin the West. I have 35 acres in alfalfa and I intend to out 40 acres more. I was formerly a fruit grower near Covins, California, but I want to say that this is one of the best money-making sections on the map. It is a wonderfully productive alfalfa country, and I positively believe it is the best sugar beet section in the United States.

I was in Southern California 10 years and I certainly was prepared to appreciate low-priced land and water. I have raised the finest type of vegetables of all kinds up here. The soil is deep, rich and productive, the alfalfa hay grown here is far superior to that raised anywhere in the Southwest. This country has a great future. I would like to see many dis-satisfied Californians come up here where there are real opporod. In closing, I want to say that I raised 20 tons of sugar beets to the acre, with very little care and Brilliant Dance Climax of Fisit by Beauties.

A "dark horse" won the national beauty coptest, decided in Los Angeles yesterday evening after judges had wrangled for hours over the choice. Fittingly though the girl from the national qualital wears the haurels.

Miss Ryth M. Purcell is a young woman with striking eyes. It was these eyes that speak volumes in momentary flashes, that placed her just two oblints beyond her nearest rival, Mis Clara McAbee of Maryland. Ordering her head is a wealth of black fair. Her features are oval, rather of the Latin moid. A firm chin sungolts a well defined and regular abouth filled with teeth of pearly questity.

The judges were artists, even of internations fame—Max Wieczorek, A. S. Kessterly! Mrs. Antonia Melvill Mrs. Mauc Davis Baker and the one exception to the rule. Commissioner General, H. O. HIGHWAY INSPECTION.

thought Mr. Toll's statement that Los Angeles was bankrupt is not only foolish, but dangerous. As vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank he should be more guarded in his remarks, even if they are true, which he very much doubts.

According to Mr. Young, the nigger in the woodpile is the Brand pumping plant, on the other side of Casa Verdugo, which the Glendale City Trustees recently signed a contract to buy. This contract, says Mr. Young, is illegal, as a city of the sixth class cannot purchase anything of this nature outside the city limits.

"For this reason the city of Glendale is making strenuous efforts to annex Casa Verdugo so that she may legally fulfill the contract, said Mr. Young. "Should she fall in this effort, L. C. Brand can bring suit against the City Trustees for fulfillment of his contract, and as the Trustees have illegally signed the document they personally can be held responsible." HIGHWAY INSPECTION.

[LOCAL CORNESTONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, June 12.—The Highway Commission of Ventura county visited this county yesterday and inspected the work being done on the good roads. They were taken in charge by the Highway Commission of San Bernardino county and in automobiles the trip to all the-roads now being paved was made. The places where concrete is being poured on the work of making 150 miles of paved highway in the county are: Hase line between Highland and San Bernardino; Colton avenue between San Bernardino; Colton avenue west from Redlands; Euclid avenue south of Ontario; Central avenue north of Chino, and Crafton avenue north of Chino, and Crafton avenue seast of Redlands. The members of the Vectura commission who were here are A. C. Hardeson, Santa Paula; H. H. Eastwood, Oxnard; Charles Petit and Art Lovett, Ventura. The commission of this county is composed of G. S. Hinckley, Redlands; W. A. Freemire, Ontario, and J. B. Gill, San Bernardino. document they personally can be held responsible."

Three private meetings have already been held at the home of Mr. Toll to which the Glendale officials were invited, according to Mr. Youns. "The recent bonds passed by the city to acquire a water system have proved entirely inadequate," he said, commenting on the situation. "Glendale claimed that she would have enough water to supply a city of 30,000, and they find they have hardly enough to supply 5000. In dry seasons they would be strictly up against it. That is the reason that they had to buy the Brand water plant out here, and that is the reason they are so anxious to annex us."

OFFER BACKING.

Frank Palima's famous thirty-piece band formally opened "Coro-nado Tent City" yesterday. More en-tertainment and better accommoda-tions than ever this year.—[Adver-

"Everyone was offering sympathy for the raw deal the Toll crowd gave us," he said. "They have asked me to call another meeting and have, promised to be out in their full strength next time. After my committee has seen the Los Angeles City Council I shall do so, and nothing on earth shall stop us from annexing to Los Angeles."

Mr. Young says he and his committee have been accused of political aspirations. This he flatly denies. He has all he can do to attend to his own business as a consulting engineer, he says, and most of the political jobs wouldn't pay a salary big enough to keep his garden in decent shape. All the other men on the committee and none of them own any more property than that on which their homes are built.

Petitions for annexation to Los Angeles will be circulated early next week, but meetings for discussing the question will be called in order that the problem may be thoroughly threshed out.

were released from the County Jall yesterday. Posses of deputies, directed by Under Sheriff White, were sent into various parts of the county up to a late hour last night running down clews that have been furnished by the wholesale. Detective Broadhead and others of the Southern Pacific aided in the search. When the two bandits left the train at Hewitt, it is believed they walked a short distance and were met by a confederate in an automobile. The county police believe the insistent demands of the bandits to have the train stopped at Burbank was only a "blind" and that they intended alighting at Hewitt all the time. No trace of their equipment was found, however. While no one will take seriously Mrs. Pankhurst's recent proposition to allow British women to enlist for actual fighting, it must be admitted that the women of England have come forward nobly in registering for war work. THE FLOPPING OF BRYAN.

If there is one quality more than another in which the late Mr. Bryan excels, it is in his ability to quickly flop from one side to the other of public questions, and to his inconsistencies with what Hamlet calls ds, words, words."

In the long ago when "Billy Bryan" was "the boy orator of the Platte," and before he became the nominee for President of the Democratic National Convention that was selzed with midsummer rables at Chi-cago, he lariated free coinage of silver for a hobby horse, and was hired by the national committee to travel through the West advocating the double standard.

He earned his money. In Colorado he told the miners to vote for free coinage and they would be able to buy twice as our and meat for their silver dollars Then he went into Kansas and told the farmers that with free coinage they would get twice as many silver dollars for their flour and meat. He assured the capitalists that free silver would double the value of the mortgages they held, and he told the debtors that with free silver they could pay their mortgages at 50 cents on the dollar.

Mr. Bryan's latest utterances indicate that his ability to "double-shot the turn," as Roosevelt might say, has not forsaken him. Finding that the public sentiment of the country does not indorse his spectacular resignation as Secretary of State and his ill-considered and demagogical attack on President Wilson, in his "address to the American people" published on Friday, Mr. Bryan now turns squarely around in his tracks, and in his address to Germanthat President Wilson and himself both ardently desire peace and friendship with Germany, and that the only difference be tween them is a difference of method in obtaining it. Wilson courteously de-mands it as a right. Bryan abjectly solic-

A In an admirable message of a Governor of California appears the following crite icism of extravagance in high places: deem it my duty to call the attention of the Legislature to the necessity of a general reuction in the salaries of officers whose compensation is fixed by the Legislature . 1. It is contrary to the genius of simplicity of republican institutions to pay high

That warning against extravagance was voiced by the first Governor of California, not by the last. When one considers the general revenue bill of more than $36,000,000 signed by the present Governor and realizes that every salary and pay-roll incres voted by the last Legislature (totaling almost a million dollars) has been approved one becomes almost bewildered in contemplating the distance which we have strayed from "the genius of simplicity of republican institutions," in sixty-four years.

Science has recorded wonderful victories during those six decades. California's population and material wealth have increa in fabulous proportions. But what victories of the inner man, what moral and mental achievements have we to report? Our pres his voice, while that of the first Governor could reach not more than half a mile; but what of the thought which the two voices convey?

When one reads today that message sen by Peter Burnett to the California Legisla ture sitting in the then State capital at San Jose in January, 1851, it seems to carry almost a voice of prophecy. Read the fol-lowing and reflect how many millions the there enunciated had been followed by succeeding administrations:

while an omcer should be allowed such compensation for his services as will afford him a plain, decent support he should not be allowed such a salary as will amount to speculation in a case where no risk is incurred. The opinion entertained by many that high salaries will secure the services of superfor ment is not correct. their duties are discharged with an eye to the approbation of their constituents and to the acquirement of honest fame, motives more powerful in securing a faithful dis-charge of official duties than the desire of

After this comes an admonition con ing court fees: "The rates at present allowed are exceedingly oppressive upon those who seek justice in our courts. Cheap and speedy justice is one of the cardin when the courts are only open by the pay ment of exorbitant costs in advance, it is better for men to suffer wrong than to seek

There is a freedom, strength and vigor in that expression which gives one the impres-sion of standing before a masterpiece of Flemish or Italian art of the Middle Ages Thereugen the Pacific Mail Company canceled its order for the four steamships and devoted its efforts to strengthening and extending its Japanese-Chinese trade and its coastwise trade. The headplece of the first Governor of Calitending its Japanese-Chinese trade and its coastwise trade.

Then Congress enacted the seamen's bill, the immediate effect of which was to increase the cost of annual operation of the company's ships nearly one million dollars for coastwise trade and over six hundred thousand dollars for the oriental trade. The company has found itself unable to carry this additional load and compets with the Japanese lines of steamers which are substituted by the Japanese government.

The Pacific Mail Company has therefore determined to sell its vessels and so out of business on November 1, when the seamen's law will go into effect and, thanks to Democratic legislation, the American flag will be exiled from the Pacific Ocean.

Without explicitly denying that the gifted Bryan has "the instinct of genius and the napfration of an apostle," or that he is "reinforced by the moans of the dying," or that those who differ with him are "thoughtless and blatant jingoes," The Times must question the assertion that Mr. Bryan, who dethat Prince of Peace"—who put up a fairly good personal fight against the money changers in the temple, and who said: Think not that I am come to send peace on earth; I come not to send peace, but a sword," is the originating genius of a peace

The project for a perpetual peace pact between nations and to reduce the law of na-tions to a written code was advanced by mmanuel Kant and Jeremy Bentham near the close of the eighteenth century Benfrom each nation, which should determine nternational disputes, and the decrees of which should be enforced against any state that might resist them by the combined power of the rest. Codification of the law of nations has been in part accomplished by the St. Peters-burg and Geneva and Hague conventions, of Berlin. All nations are interested in scertaining with precision the rules to which they have assented in general terms. A treaty may be broken at the will of either of the parties to it, and international law as at present constituted may be repudiated by any nation which chooses not to be bound by it, but a code adopted by a connations and enforced by an executive power tions would be able to establish and 'pre serve that universal peace which is not otherwise attainable.

The project of universal peace is a com nendable one, and some of the plans for perfecting the project are feasible. But Mr. Bryan is not the originator of such a project, nor the framer of any of the nu-merous plans for bringing it about.

A GOOD CHANGE.

The substitution of Arthur J. Balfour for Winston Churchill as a Cabinet minister in the British government is a change for the better. Balfour's first official act is to rescind Churchill's measure to treat the captured sailors on German submarines as them as honorable prisoners of war. This is as it should be. If any criminal act has been committed by German submarines the blame rests with those who issued the orders, not with those who simply obeyed their written instructions. Being a state-man and not a demagnue, Balfour leaves the decision as to this with the two governments when the time comes for discussing peace terms. British prisoners, too, may be better off for the removal of Churchill and the appointment of Balfour to the head of the admiralty.

The rules of neutrality as defined by Washington were first, impartiality—to treat all belligerents alfke; the second was constancy of practice—that a proclamation of neutrality made at the beginning of a must be maintained unaltered until the end, and third, the lands and waters of the United States must not be the scene of belligerent operations of any kind. Sir William Vernon Harcourt asserted many years ago as a doctrine of interns tional law that it is the duty of a neutral nation not to permit or suffer either belligerent to make use of its ports or waters for the purpose of renewal or augments tion of military supplies or arms, and that the failure of a neutral in this respect is not excused by defects of the mu law or by successful evasion of that law. conformable to its international duties and compel its subjects to obey them. National Editorial Service. THE MAGNA CHARTA OF BETTER

BY HON, WILLIAM L. RANSOM, Justice of the City Court of the City of New York

THE decision of the United States District Court at Trenton, refusing to direct the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation, is valuable for what it confirms and fortifies, rather than what it confirms and fortifies, rather than for any novelty of doctrines declared. The court in fact declines to consider the law of the case as open to doubt at all; the controversy is at the outset stated to be "largely one of business facts." The legal concepts which most students have been deducing from recent pronouncements of the United States Supreme Court are treated by the District Court as settled rules governing the application of the Sharman the United States Supreme Court are treated by the District Court as settled rules governing the application of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act to present-day business, and the court proceeds to apply these salutary and sensible rules to the most formidable of American units, the most highly-perfected type of that organization, concentration, and large-scale activity which modern business conditions have brought forth. The outcome makes it very flear that the courts fully mean what they have been saying, for have they not now applied those reasonable standards to the greatest of modern industrial entitles?

It is an enlightened and workable test which the court brins info use. Acts, methods, intent and results are made the criterion of illegality, finther than size or form or potentialities. The bad is inhibited, with care taken is conserve and fortify the good. "We dismiss once and for all the question of the mere volume or bigness of business," says the principal opinion. "The question before as is not how much business was done, or how large the company that did it; the vital question is, How was the business, whether big or little, done; was it, in the fast of the Supreme Court, done by prejudicing the public interests, by unduly restricting or unduly obstructing trade."

The court makes it dear that in determining whether public interests are prejudiced the effect on threse elements must be considered—competitors in trade, the purchasing public, and the general public. Certain methods at one time employed by the steel corporation are held to violate the act, but their abandonment is deemed to remove reason for decree against them. Only such combinations of capital and effort are deemed unlawful as by reason of intent or the inherent nature of the contemplated acts prejudice these public from any acts of the steel corporation, the court considers a multitude of factors, in a spirit and with a common sense highly creditable to a judicial tribunal confronted with a task essentially administrative in its nature. Th business of the steel corporation has expanded, the evidence indicated that the business of its competitors meanwhile flourished in even larger ratio. Evidence of unfair attack on the business prosperity of competitors was not advanced; emphasis had palpably been placed on making, rather than taking, business.

In this connection, the District Court does declare two rules or standards which may prove chart and compass to future enterprise. The first is that the real test of monopoly is not the size of that which is acquired, but the trade power of that which is not acquired. The second draws a most wholesome distinction between the monopolistic pre-emption of existing trade, foreign and domestic, and the creation of a new trade, new markets, new outlet for surplus, with efforts thus turned towards developing new markets rather than exising those already held by competitors.

It has been the boast, and indisputably the conscientious endeavor; of the men at the head of the steel corporation, that they have bent every effort to guide the conduct of its affairs well within the dictates of law and conscience. They have withheld no scrutiny, no innovation and no expenditure, which gave promise of bringing about a fuller conformance with that standard. The and conscience. They have withheld no scrutiny, no innovation and no expenditure, which gave promise of bringing about a fuller conformance with that standard. The unanimous decision of the bistrict Court is a fine vindication of that bind of business endeavor; it shows what American men of large affairs may accomplish, in making effective business methods consonant with the highest concepts of law and fair dealing. The whole litigation ought to be accepted as final demonstration of the futility of trying to regulate big business by lawsuit. The suit was started four years ago; its printed record occupies 15,000 pages; its direct and known cost exceeds half a million dollars; it has required abilities, energies, and funds which might far better have been devoted to humanitarian projects, on the side of both government and accused; the only objectionable conditions disclosed were abandoned as soon as the complaint was filed or before. Yet the proceeding has dragged on for four expensive years, and the outcome is nothing of value, except as it may afford a guide for commercial ventures of the present and fixture. Once the basic rules of law applicable to such combinations of capital can be regarded as fairly settled along the lines indicated by the District Courf, the whole matter of unfair trade practices and obstructions on the deal with far more promptly, economically, and suitably through a Federal Trade Commission of proper personnel and adequate powers.

The window sash came huriling down on Kickshaw's shapely head and neck; it nearly spoiled his tollworn crawn, and made his ears a hopeless wreck. Then Kickshaw sat and nursed his head, a man reduced to grievous pass; yet, with a cheerful smile, he said, 'Tm glad it didn't break the glass." He might have ripped around and swore, till people heard him round a block, or kicked a panel from the door, or thrown the tomcat through the cheek; he might have dealt in language welfd, and made the housewife's blood run edd; he might have raved and torn his beard, and wept as Rachel wept of old. But Kickshaw's made of better stuff, no tears he sheds, no teeth he grinds; when dire misfortune makes a bluff, he looks for comfort, which he finds. And so he bears his throbbing ache, and puts a poultice on his brain, and says, "I'm glad it didn't break that rich, imported window pane." It sever helps a man to beef, when trouble comes and knocks him lame; there's scalace back of every grief, if he will recognize the same.

On this day the Blackfeet Indians of Giacier National Park, a large delegation of whom are coming here especially for that occasion, will hold their great annual religious ceremony, the erection of the medicine lodge, which is their greatest event of the year.

ceremonies consist, in addition to the erection of the medicine lodge, of pow-wows, dances, games and races. Many of the Indians have had a very prominent part in the making of history in the Northwest. Among them are Chief Two Guns White Calf, whose father signed the treaty with the United States on behalf of the tribe, ceding Glacier National Park to the government and establishing the status of the Indians on the reservation which adjoins it; Chief Three Bears, 105 years of age, and Chief Many Tail Feathers, 92 years old, both of whom were famous warriors and took part in many of the battles of their tribe; Chief Big Spring, said to be the richest Indian in the United States; Chief Medicine Owl, a famous medicine man; Chief Laxy Boy, who takes a very prominent part in all of the younger men who are expert Indian dancers.

There are several galleries devoted to Swedish art and I should advise any one making a study of these pictures to begin with the Gustav Fjassad room. He is a versatile artist, exhibiting oil paintings, tapestries and wood carvings. He is considered a greater painter of snow, and there is much feeling in his art, which is characteristic. There is an incomparable fusion of tints in his pictures, and his highly technical facility of accomplishing this gives his work an unfailing sense of style. The extraordinarily orginal and beautiful tapestries were designed by him, but were woven by his sister.

One artist interprets one part of Sweden, one another, or all in different manner the varying moods of its land and life. Each paints in a truly individual manner: although all show a decided influence of the modern school of art. One is impressed with the original treatment of the themes and with the feeling of the soil and life of Sweden. The Swedish people are stordy, vigorous, self-reliant, full of the joy of munity of home-loving people, Orange, one of the principal cities of Orange county, is a favored spot of the Southland. This statement is the consensus of opinion of all persons who have been privileged to visit to call it their home are even more pronounced in their views of the place.

THE GREAT PROSPERITY OF OR ANGE.

Town in Fertile Orange County Where Everybody Looks Pleasant and Money is Plentiful-A Model Residence Community, its Crops and its People.

Within thirty minutes of the ocean, near the foothills and not far from the mountains, thirty-one miles southeast of Los Angeles, Orange has an ideal geographical location and, being accessible by two railroads, the Pacific Electric and Santa Fe, and numerous well-improved roads and highways, it has maintained for many years a compelling lure for tourists and other pleasure seekers.

The whole of Orange county is a wast garden, with the city of Orange the center and most attractive of all. The Garden of Eden could hardly have been more respleadent with the wondrous beauties of nature than this charming community.

There is nothing to worry about in Orange. Contentment shines with unmistakable brilliancy upon the faces of everyone of the 4500 or more men, women and children there. Prosperity is everywhere and prospects for future development and success or Orange people could be no brighter. When Southern California as a whole suffered; immeasurably from the frosts of two years ago, which depleted the citrus products to such an extent that many banking institutions and owners of great franches wavered, Orange survived the acid test with increased bank deposits and more genuine prosperity than had marked its career of past progress. This wonderful record is pointed to with just pride by the residents of Orange to show both the stability of the city and its immunity from the ravages of the elements.

Possessed of a natural desire to be law-abiding, the citizens of Orange have leas need of police protection than any other city of similar population in the United States. Without saloons and absolutely free of the contaminating influences of the "blind pig" the people come and go with a feeling of perfect safety. It is said that only one person has been arrested for drunkenness there since last January 1.

CHURCHES AND LABRARY.

Keeping abreast with the commercial progress of the city the citizens have taken great pains in the upbuilding of educational institutions and in addition to some of the best schools in the State, have erected nine beautiful churches—all well supported and having large memberships—and maintain a particularly handsome Carnegle Library. The laster institution is free, of course, to the public and is most generously patronized.

The people of Orange are so conscientious about every thing pertaining to the growth and success of the city that they would rather have no comment at all about their community and its matchless environs than to hear or read exaggerated statements of it. They feel that the plain truth is good enough, much better indeed than grossly inflated descriptions that, under investigation, might be found lacking. It is difficult, however, for one who has visited the city to conceive the possibility of overstating the facts.

PRODUCTS OF ORANGE,

PRODUCTS OF ORANGE, Bearing in mind the standard adopted by boosters of Orange care has been taken to secure as far as possible only accurate data concerning the wealth and products of the city and county. Inasmuch as the city is a vital part of the county the following statistics can be taken as a fair criterion in considering the productiveness of the community, the figures being estimated upon the crops of the past year:

"Among our business men there has been but one 'selling out at cost,' and no bankrupt or sheriff's sale for seventeen years," is an authenticated report recently issued by progressive business men of the city. Continuing, the report reads:
"There are nine churches—Presbyterlan, Methodist, Baptist, Christian, Episcopal, German Lutheran and others. Seventeen secret societies, among them being Massons, Odd Fellows, Foresters, Fraternal Aid, Woodman, G.A.R., etc. A fine public Carnesie Library, 385,300 High School, two prosperous banks with subsidiary institutions, graded schools, up-to-date hotels, including the Hotel Rochester and Hotel Haynes, the Sunshine apartments, one of the most modern of its kind in California, post-office, telegraph and telephone, two hustling newspapers, the Orange Daily News and the Orange Post, numerous mercantile stores, Edison electric light system, gas plant, a beautiful public plana in the center of the city, city waterworks, steam laundry, planing mills, livery stables, excellent fire protection, miles of cement walks, best climate and soil, several prosperous packing-houses and ne salcons.
"Mr. D. F. Campbell, one of our ploneer orange growers and a progressive rancher, one season received net $6400 from four acres of Valencia oranges. Elimer Hayward $9000 from six acres Valencias, and twenty-one others received from $800 to $1500 per acre.

"H. W. Mills received in 1910, more length or the corners of Valencia oranges.

large profits to the owners of the big orchards the industry gives employment to hundreds of people. All of them receive excellent wages.

The production of oranges is confined largely to Valencias, though there are many navel oranges grown in the district. This district has the reputation of furnishing the first oranges of the season and also the last. Oranges from this vicinity are in popular demand throughout the country and one is just as likely to see a crate of them shipped into the largest hotel of New York as he is to see it in the commissary department of the Alexandria in Los Angeles. While nearly all of the oranges in Southern California have a superior taste, it is generally admitted that those coming from Orange country are just a little sweeter and a little more nutritious. This is due, of course, to the climatic conditions and the extra care taken by the growers to have everything right in their production.

Theodore Roosevelt once said in re-to have everything right in their production.

Theodore Roosevelt once said in referring to the wonderful possibilities of the Colorado Valley. "Get five acres there and you will have independence." Nothing could be truer of the situation around Orange. Orange orchards in bearing may be bought at from $600 to $2000 per acre, the general

vided as follows:

Plowing and cultivating, $17.50; irrigating, $7,50; pruning, $5; fertilizing, $10; furnigation, $15; water assessments, $1.80; State and county taxes approximately, $8.50. Deducting this average cost from the average production of $200 and there is left to the grower a net profit of $135 per acre. In addition to this he raises his garden truck and has little to spend for the necessaries of life.

stances make radical changes in these figures. You do not need the good house here that you were obliged to have back East. Though there are omany fine ones here, some are only one thickness of board. This is all, that is necessary, as it is possible to live comfortably in a tent the entire year.

"Taxes are reasonable. Titles are perfect. Water stock is worth $75 per acre, but costs nothing in buying the land.

acre, but costs nothing in buying the land.

"Orange is twelve miles from the ocean; bathing, fishing and hunting the year round. In the opposite direction five miles are the foothills and oil wells, and, a little further, the mountains. Here quail are plentiful, and occasionally a deer, bear, coyote or mountain lion is found. In the mountains east of Orange are several coal mines, and numerous gold and silver mines. Here also Madam Modjeska, the celebrated actress, had her mountain ranch home.

"About six miles northwest from Orange are numerous oil wells, and eight miles southwest are the peat lands, celery fields and artesian wells. Orange is thus surrounded by grand and beautiful scenery, by rich land, and enterprises which are yielding wealth to these who are industrious and progressive in their efforts. Orange is the gem of the valley, nestled in the center of the fruit belt, among fragrant blossoms and golden fruits."

BISBEE (Ariz.) June 11.—The annual report of Phelps, Dodge & Co. is an interesting document, giving authentic information covering the operations of one of the largest mining corporations in the world. It is capitalized at $50,000,000 and has the subsidiary and contributing branches of the Copper Queen, Detroit, Moctesuma and Burro Mountain copper mining companies; the Stag Canyon Fuel Company at Dawson, N. M.; the Phelps-Dodge Mercantile Company and the Douglas smelter, as well as the new Bunker Hill Company of Tombstone.

The total ore extraction of the year from the company's mines was 4,770,243 tons. The company's furnaces at the same time made 140,-

IS THE BEST TIME TO BUY REAL ESTATE BECAUSE VALUES ARE LOWEST

It is the best time to buy real estate—the market is at the very lowest ebb. The realty condition has been at a standstill for some time past, but better times are in sight and rapid advances will be made

$100 ADVANCE

Within a few days we will advance every lot in Beautiful Rodgers Park $100 each. The reason for this advance is the fact that within a few days the paving of Vermont Avenue will be finished in front of Rodgers Park. Soon this splendid thoroughfare will be extended to the beach. You will have a magnificent boulevard extending from the mountains to the sea passing your property. This $100 advance is only a beginning of the increase in values that will naturally follow the opening of the great boulevard.

New price list showing this increase in price is now in the hands of the printer. You should see these lots before the advance has been made and study the reason why we are making this increase in price. This is a real opportunity for one to get a home lot at the right price.

Carl J. Kroells, a Lindsay orange grower, has bought the Babcock orange and olive grove in the Strathmore district, the eighteen acres of young trees bringing a reported price of $17,500, R. T. Sharp, formerly of Southern California, has acquired forty acres of land in the Orange Heights district from Visalia investors and will start development work immediately. The property will be set out to olives.

D. P. Bougher of Los Angeles has bought the Dr. Race ranch of 166 acres on Tule River, paying a reported price of $28,000 for the property, the sum being practically in cash. Plans are being made for a new residence, barns and other buildings. Mr. Beougher will go in for blooded cattle. D. P. Beougher of Los Angeles has purchased the Sherman Teague property on Mineral-King road, comprising forty acres set to aifalfa and peaches, and well improved with bringing a good price from this discisco business man, has sold to A. Ingell of this city a ten-acre pomegranate and orange grove just north of the city limits. The price is announced at $12,000. Pomegranates have been bringing a god price from this district when used in making up mixed cars of fruit for eastern markets.

W. P. Putnam of San Francisco has sold to Edwin A. Flaher of Berkeley a quarter section of foothill land in the Tule River foothills. The place includes a small orchard. M. A. Melvin of Sacramento has bought from J. F. Wetherby of Los Angeles, who has large interests in this district, forty acres of olive land just south of Porterville, Mr. Melvin expects to let the contracts for trees and to start improvement on the tract at once. John Gernant has purchased at addoining forty acres from Mr. Wetherby and also plans improvements. E. Bickford has bought a four-acre suburban tract southeast of the city limits from J. J. of refined barytes and paid $447,358 for it, according to statistics complied by James M. Hill of the United States Geological Survey. Most of this product was used in the large quantity of white paint required by the general response to the slogan, "Clean up, paint up."

The barytes mines of Missouri, Alabama, California, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia dug 51,547 tons during 1914, for which they received $153,745, or $2.98 a ton.

An item of particular interest during 1914 was the discovery that the barytes veins near El Portal, Mariposa county, California, turn into witherite (barium carbonate) at relatively shallow depths. Heretcfore deposits of witherite of commercial size were unknown in the United States, and all the barium carbonate we used was either imported from Germany or made from barytes at considerable expense.

These tapestries are shimmeringly beauti-ful.

The collection of pictures by Anna

The collection of pictures by Anna Boberg are startling in their brilliant coloring; and in the bold manner in which she uses her brush. The largest canvas is "The First Snow in the Mountains." One not having visited Lofoten on the Norwegian coast, where she paints these pictures, might feel they are not true to nature. To see such color effects in our country one would have to travel as far as Alaska. These colors vary from rich cobait blue to brilliant carmine.

Anna Boberg was born in 1862 and is the wife of Ferdinand Boberg, the architect and etcher. In the beginning she painted small water colors and made imitations of Gobelin tapestries, which she designed. These paintings were in the Hotel Rydberg in Stockholm, lately demolished. For a numer of years she has been painting more and more in oil colors. Her pictures are very much appreciated in Italy and Paris. She spends much of her time on an Island off the Norwegian coast in a hut built for her by her husband, and dressed in garments similar to those of a man so that the natives often mistake her for a man. Ferdinand Boberg and his wife have an elegant home in Stockholm where they are a part of a charmed circle of artists and scholgene—the King's brother—not exhibiting his landscapes. He is thought by some to be the best landscape painter in Sweden. Anders Zorn was also too timid to risk his pictures to the dangers of the sea.

A group of pictures by Elsa Back-lund-Celsing are full of joyous life and action. In "Tobogganing" a pale young girl dressed in subdued colors, white hat and red mittens, is impatiently standing on the top of a birch-covered hill waiting for someone to take a seat on the toboggan, so that she may slide down the snow and the intensely blue sky give the impression of a sparkling cold day. "Skiing" on a canvas of the same dimension is a dull snowing day. A boy in gray suit and black gloves is skiing in a nonchalant care-free manner, without the zest of sport expressed in the face of the girl in "Tobogganing."

All of Hugo Carlberg's paintings are done systematically, and all lovers of art appreciate them. "Spring Morning on the River" shows the giorious reflections of the sky in the warm depths of the wood-encircled lake, and his "Springtime" reflects the limpid lights of the cool waters absorbed by mossy banks.

SWEDISH FAIRY TALES.

SWEDISH FAIRY TALES. John Bauer's illustrations of Swed-ish fairy tales are captivating. They are small and one has to study them at close range. The children in Swe-den like them, and the grown people in America stand before them and ejaculate aloud with delight at the queer little people with their expres-sive eyes, and at the fairies and forest nymphs. MIDNIGHT PICTURE.

Anshelm Schultzberg's "Midsummer Night" might well be termed a "Midsummer's Night Dream." This picture was painted at the witching hour of midnight. It shows two of the outhouses near a charcoal burner's home, where in summer the winter's clothing is kept and in winter the summer clothing is stored away. There is a large apple tree in full bloom spreading its wondrous beauty over the landscape through which we see the houses on a soft green sward with a dark forest in the background. The faint yellowish light in the sky gives the impression it is the dawn of day, instead of midnight. In the foreground is a small garden patch with the vegetables just pushing upthrough the rich soil. Underneath the spreading branches of the apple tree are brilliant wild flowers. The rustic fence adds a charming note. One feels that the guardian angel must be hovering over the huts of these peasant people with a benediction. Although we do not see the home, we feel that we are in it, looking out on this inspiring bit of nature.

Flag Day Picnic.

The Daughters of the American Revolution are busy with plans for their picnic at Eastlake Park on Flag Day, tomorrow. Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, the State Regent, who will preside at the luncheon, has called a business meeting for 11 o'clock. Sons of the Revolution and their families are invited to join in the picnic lunch at noon, after which Dr. Ethelbert Dudley Warfield will deliver an address. Gen. Prescott will bring the official greetings of the Sons of the Revolution. At the request of the Los Angeles chapter, which will present a flag, the city has erected a flag staff, and the flag raising with proper ceremony will take place during the afternoon.

One of the delightful events of the season in clubdom was the reception given last Wednesday to the Gen. Gridley Chapter. D.A.R., by its Vice-Regent, Mrs. Albert M. Babcock, at her Ramona Park residence. The exterior of the house was decorated in American flags and the interior in flowers representing the colors (blue and yellow) of the Colonial Dames, and the red, white and blue of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Many rare and beautiful mementoes of foreign travel were in evidence.

Guests of honor were the State Regent, Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer, Mrs. S. W. Durflinger, prominent lubwoman of London and Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde Braly, the latter being Regent of the chapter, Mrs. Durflinger is a lifelong friend and schoolmate of Mrs. Babrock, and is her house guest. There were about fifty guests, representative Colonial Dames and D.A.R. of Southern Colonial Dames and Schoolman of the colors of the colors of the chapter of the ch

An interesting programme was presented by Mrs. Harry E. Bowman, shairman of the Programme Committee of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon Club in the G.A.R. Hall, when the telephone club met for its regular semi-sponthly meeting. Mrs. Charles A. Previous to the Sarker, president, and Miss. Cora Hickman, vice-president, were registered.

Mrs. T. A. Thompson: "Holland," Mrs.

J. F. Mead; "France," Mrs. A. A. Hummell; "Germany," Mrs. L. Frank Baum; "Scotland," Mrs. A. nstruther Davidson: "From the Fair Plains of the North—Russia," Mrs. Helen von Hertzen. The final toast was by Mrs. Cassius Smith, "Home—the Place Where We Are Treated Best and Grumble Most—Yet Boast—the Ideal Place."

would take chances on winning the second also.

The Fresno convention decided to circulate petitions for the placing of the two proposals on the beliet for November, 1916. A State committee of thirty members, fifteen north and fifteen south of the Tehachepi, has been formed and is already at work. There is not the slightest question about setting the necessary signatures.

The two proposed amendments which are to be the center of a terrific struggle in California next year are:

Mrs. Alice B. Chantry, who built a fence across an afley, holding that it was not a right-of-way and was sued by Mrs. Addie M. Vickers, who said it

INDIAN GIRL WOULD RAY DIE THAN LIVE HERE.

Despondent Over Inability to Re-turn to Her People, She Attempts Her Life so as to Join Pather in the Happy Hunting Grounds—Will Myrtie Little, 17 years old, a Navajo. Indian maid, who was brought here a month ago from the Parker Reservation in Arizona to learn more about civilisation, made a desperate attempt yesterday morning to escape "bondage" by hanging herself in the bathroom at the home of Mrs. F. E.

Robinson, No. 131 North Carondelet street. She was rescued in the nick of time, her frantic struggle for breath attracting the attention of Mrs. Robinson, who ran to her assistance. She will recover.

As soon as the girl recovered she made a vicious attack upon her rescuer and it was necessary to summon the police to quiet her.

"I want to go to the Great White Father," she cried as a patrolman approached. "I can't stand it here any longer. I am lonesome and if Mrs.
Robinson had let me alone I would now be in the happy hunting grounds."

The girl, whose Indian name is

The girl, whose Indian name is Cotta, was brought here with eleven other girls of her tribe by Mrs. Sarah Babcock, wife of the superintendent of the Parker Reservation schools. All of them were placed in good homes and, with the exception of Cotta, all have been happy.

The Indian mald wept hysterically at Central Police Station and declared that if she is not allowed to return to her own people she will kill-berself. Notwithstanding her threats, she was removed to Juvenile Hall, where she will be kept under close surveillance.

FAMILY UNFED: HEAD IS JAILED.

OKER ANSWERS SUMMONS FOR CONTEMPT.

Warning!
When you have been cited to spear in court to show cause why you couldn't be punished for failing to rovide for your family, don't go incourt drunk.

Because if you do the court will at nee understand why your family asn't been provided for and he will unish you first for contempt and link over meantime what he is going to do to you for failure to provide.

to C. M. DuVerne, a broker, in Judge Willis's court.

DuVerne had been cited to appear, upon a showine by his wife that he had not provided for her and the children. DuVerne was late in responding to the citation, and just as the judge was about to decide harsher ways of getting him into court, DuVerne arrived.

He reeled into the courtroom like a seagoing jitbus on a slippery pavement. Judge Willis caught one whiff of the strongest breath he had met in many moons.

"You've been drinking," said the judge.

"W'y, yerronner," said Duverne,
"ain't had dropsh."
"You're drunk now," said Judge

Willis.

"Who, me? hic, I ain' drunkft."

"You will so to jail for five days for contempt," said the judge.

And, sure enough, DuVerne went. BLAMES AN ENEMY,

Negro in Whose Home Opium Paraphernalia is Found Gives Explanation but is Fined.

Romeo Brown, colored, who has been arrested several times during the past year in connection with opium raids, tried to convince Judge Frederickson yesterday morning that he did not know how several cans of his favorite drug happened to be found in his house at No. 1317 ½ Mono street. "I never took them there," he said. "And it certainly is a myasery how they got there. I didn't know that I had any enemies that would treat me so mean."

Brown was arrested by Plainclothesmen Ketchum and Rockey and when they searched his house they found much paraphernalia used in smoking opium. The judge fined him 100 and sentenced him to serve 100 days in Jail. The latter was suspended.

UNKS FOR MONEY.

Man Patents Cleaner to Raise Cash for Prosecution of Garbage Suit Against City.

E. C. Emery, who has offices in the American Bank Building, has patied a device for the removal of dirtrom sidewalks and floors without the xpense of energy in rubbing it off, it has orders from some of the largest business houses in the city and xpects to start a manufacturing dant.

expects to start a manufacturing plant.

The invention is the creature of necessity and is somewhat out of Mr. Emerys line. He has been trying to finance a plant for the manufacture of psultry food, a by-product of garbage, but as the Board of Public Works will not permit him to gather the garbage, his patented food has been shelved. The necessity for setting money to fight the garbage case in court and to carry on a campaign of promotion turned Mr. Emery toward another line of invention and the patent cleaner was the result. It is a liftle steel device that may be fitted to the end of a broom, and is especially designed for gum and other sticky substances that adhere to pavenents or floors.

BY EDWIN F. SCHALLERT.

All eyes in the local musical work will open Monday of next week, with the convening of the national of management of the National Fed eration of Music Clubs, and which will continue for two weeks, culminating in the presentation of the priz pera, "Fairyland," for which elab preparations are now being made.

The first three days of the festive will be occupied largely with the con sideration of executive details. On the afternoon of the fourth day will come the first musical programme. It of American music, as represented in original Indian melodies of the very original Indian melodies of the very earliest type. Charles F. Lummis, the Frincess Tslanina. Redfeather and Charles Wakefield Cadman will present this feature.

Following this on the same afternoon will come the rendition of a trio for violin, violoncello and plano, opus 61 (Adolph M. Foerster.) by Messrs. Oskar Seiling. Alex Simonsen and Homer Grunn of the Brahms quintette, with the composer at the plano, as well as a group of songs by Faith Rogers, and a quintette by Ernest R. Kroeger, with the composer at the plano. He will be assisted by four members of the Brahms quintette.

Saturday evening.

Only American music will be presented on the festival programme.

Los Angeles has never had as representative githering of musical artists as are at present guests of the city, and the number is constantly increasing as the opening of the festival approaches.

Practically everyone concerned in the production of the prize opera. "Fairyland" is now here. Horatio Parker and Brian Hooker, respectively composer and libretist of the opera. will personally supervise the presentation of the work.

A far different story promises to be written concerning the present music drama than was the case with "Mons." the other prize opera from their pens which was heard several years ago at the Metropolitan Operahouse, and then shelved. The present opera differs decidedly from "Mona" in that it affords unusual opportunity for scenic display. The stage effects are designed to be remarkably beautiful. The handling of this portion of the presentation will be in the hands of L. F. Gottschalk.

THE HELPING HAND. "How far that little candle throws his beams!

So many Civil War veterans have been dropped from the government pay rolls in Washington during the present administration that a recent act of "Corporal" Tanner, Register of Wills, is worthy of mention. James F. Callan, $4 years old, after serving twenty-five years as watchman at the City Hall, was last week dismissed for 'old age incompetency."

Mr. Callan by his long and faithful services had endeared himself to many officials at the City Hall, when Mr. Tanner heard of his predicament he immediately tendered him osition, which, while it pays only $50 per month, will serve to keep the old employee at work and to aid him in his desire to support himself. The watchman's job paid $60 per month, but out of that little could be set aside to provide for old age incompetency.

The action of Register Tanner in finding a place for Mr. Callan is being favorably commented upon by members of the bar, who have regarded Mr. Callan with favor for many years.

The Pennsylvania Medical Missionary Society is endeavoring to raise a fund of $20,000 for the purpose of aiding missionaries to secure a medical education before going to their foreign fields of work. Of the total amount one-fourth was quickly raised, and the appearances are that the balance will be soon secured. Six students already aided by the society are taking medical courses at the University of Pennsylvania, the Women's Medical College, the University of Illinois, and the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago.

Rev. Walter Lambert, a curate at the Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston, distinguished himself when he jumped from an auto in front of 391 Broadway, Boston, down into a gas-filled trench and rescued John Kins. 58, of 337 Eighth street, an employee of the Boston Consolidated Gas Co., who was lying unconscious on the bot-tom.

who was lying unconscious on the bottom.

King was endeavoring to locate a leak in a gas main, when a sudden burst of the gas rendered him unconscious and he dropped to the bottom of the hole.

Fr. Lambert saw him fall and heard the shouts of the workmen, and he jumped into the hole and with the assistance of one of the men passed the stricken man up to the street. King was rushed to the Karney Hospital, where his name was placed on the dangerous list. Except for soiling his clothes, Fr. Lambert was not affected by the gas.

An extraordinary pledge of $1000 for St. Luke's International Hospital. Tokio, Japan, featured the annual convention of the Junior Auxiliary of the Diocese of Southern Ohio for the Board of Missions of the American Episcopal Church of the Epiphany. This pledge is in addition to the one of $450 for general missions that was made last year. The amounts are to be paid within the year.

What is believed to be the largest bequest ever given a suburban church is provided for in the will of Charles W. Emerson of Newton, former dry goods merchant of Boston. At the death of Mr. Emerson's sister, the Grace Episcopal Church of Newton will receive about $400,000.

Several bequests are made to former employees of Mr. Emerson, and the residue of the estate, said to be about $800,000 in all, is left in trust for his sister, Mrs. Julian Meade, formerly of Watertown, At her death $15,000 will go to the Newton hospital and $10,000 to the N. E. Peabody Home for Crippled Children. The residue, including securities, store property, etc., which will be about $400,000, will be given to the Grace Episcopa; Church of Newton.

Mr. Emerson was an officer in this church for more than twenty-five years and it was while he was on his way to attend a service that he was stricken with his fatal illness. He died a short time later.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] The fame of the little town of Rochestr, Minn.—which has less than 8000 inhabitants by the last census—has been made by two great surgeons, Charles and William Mayo. The Mayo clinic of St. Mary's Hospital has been the Mecca not merely of invalids, but of doctors eager to observe the methods of the famous practitioners. With a generosity that is the tradition amons the greater men and minds of their profession, the brothers have shown an unstinted hospitaity to patients and physicians alike, and they have been prodigiously busy and successful, and commensurately honored by learned societies here and abroad.

Many medical institutions have been conducted merely for the selfish profit of the promoters. Just because the Mayo brothers have cared more for the advancement of science than for money or repute, great wealth is theirs at an age that in both cases is close to the half-century mark. The world would not begrudge them the enjoyment of their well-earned wealth in the pleasant ease of an honorable retirement. But that is not their plan. They are placing the University of Minnesota in absolute possession of a fund of $2,000,000 for medical research, free from embarrasment of complicated stipulations as to the expenditure of the money.

A more nobly disinterested use of affunces acquired in the practice of one's profession it would be hard to find in the annals of any calling.

This has not been a good year for This has not been a good year for the road show, and perhaps when times are better the legitimate stars and actors of mediocre ability will come back to the stage, but at present if a New York house wanted capable people for the spoken drama it would have to come to Los Angeles and make a still hunt among the movie studios to get a cast.

Being an optimist I am hopeful that much of this is due to the generally bad business conditions of the country. To think otherwise would be to admit that the stage is retrograding.

It is with some rejuctance that I admit that any good thing can come from the Princess players, even now that they are no more. Hallbrook Blinn had a bad case of the horrors and tried to spread the disease.

One of the last things Mr. Blinn produced before surrendering the Princess Theater and going into pictures (where he will not remain, because he has too much 'ego and virility) was a war play in one act and four scenes, written by Beulah Marie Dix, and called "Across the Border," and of all the war plays published or produced this one seems best to set forth the horrors of war.

For a thing so fantastical its stage method is exceedingly good. It is daring in the extreme, without violating probability.

A young lieutenant who goes for reinforcements is fatally wounded. Indeed, he is killed, or at least his spirit is temporarily dissociated from his body, and goes to a quiet place, where he meets strange gentlefolk, who know nothing of war, and where he sees the girl of his dreams. The master of this house takes him to the place of the winds, a vast frozen waste (as in contradistinction to a hell of heat) and there he learns the reality of war. He begs for a chance to return to his comrades and the world in order to convince them of war's dreadful folly. He regalns consciousness in a field hospital, and makes this effort, but those who hear him take his babbling for delirium, and he is glad to close his eyes upon the world's horrors and be led back to the place of quiet by the gentle spirit of the dream girl.

As a plot this pleasant vagary has no particular value, but there is great worth in the remarkably vivid analysis of war which the lines contain.

It would take columns, about three of them, to do this little book justice in his respect. The young lieutenant tells the master of the house that his country is the greatest in the world and the most enlightened. He says, "As a mark of our high civilization we have the biggest fleet that sails the seas. Our newest battleships cost $15,000,000 apiece."

The master shakes his head. "I seas. Our newest battleships cost $15,000,000 apiece."

The master shakes his head. "I don't think that means much to us," he says. "Can't yon put it into other terms? Could you found a university with the price of a battleship? Could you make a desert over into tilth? Could you stamp out a foul disease?"

The lieutenant answers, "I never computed at war school; I learned only practical mathematics. The elevation of guns—" Here the master breaks in, "For what purpose?" And the lieutenant's answer is, "To kill!"

And so, bit by bit, the method of warfare with its death to men, its cruelty and starvation to women and children, its destruction of all achievement, its gigantic cowardice, and the vast folly of its relentless system, are skilfully reduced to the terms of harrowing words.

The lieutenant's one justification is

The lieutenant's one justification is that the war is humanely fought. He says, "Our hospitals are well organized; it is seldom that a man is left more than three days unattended. And we treat the enemies' wounded as we do our own. I have never known a wounded prisoner killed except once our twice. The other side have used our men atrociously. With us it is quite different. We never burn their farms or villages unless they are so treacherous as to fire upon us, and then, of course, they must be punished.

"Why, to let you know how strict while in his hands, although Warfield is Warfield in any play.

Mr. Arliss is a remarkable artist, but "Disrael" is not a play of the present generation. Only a few persons of every audience appreciate its historical value.

It would seem that these great persons are unwilling to meet the requirements of the modern audience by girl, and I shot him on the spot. But there is no suiting these people. That night her old fool of a father hacked up a sentinel of ours with a hatchet, owe had to hang him at his-own door and burn his farmhouse down."

Well, after all, I suppose you are not longer of the store and Poper.

One contemplates all the prospective bridegrooms with a new interest, a well dressed man can do so many things that would be denied him by feminine society in mishapen attire. I suppose our arch-bridegroom-elect these days is Sayre McNeil. We shall have to inquire about his trousseau, if or Daphne is a considerable critic, they tell me. Then there are Harry Church, Roy Dunn, Fred Ebert, Andrew Donavon, Edwin Spates, Walter Holy, Paul Coles, Robert Poindexter, Herman Freund, Leon Spinks, John Underwood et al, oh, that's not half of them, and doubtless all flurried in their masculine silences quite

The girls' collegiate certainly surpassed themselves in their garden play, which Miss Dennen evolved out of Locke's story. "The Fortunate Youth" Miss Dennen and Miss Parsons play an important part in this community, dear boy, for they train your future brides' and any young man marrying an ex-collegiate girl can be comfortably assured that she has been made the best of. You never saw such a fine lot of girls in your life as took part in that play, one or two of them potential heiresses who are being taught to manin your life as took part in that play, one or two of them potential heiresses who are being taught to manage their own affails with acumen. All dressed in young girlish styles, not half the fashionable ambition that is so obvious at the high schools. The yacht clubs are awakening into activity just now and yachting is certainly going to be a fashionable passime. And yachting is so unbecoming, unless one's hair curled naturally. They always say that Warren manages to keep single so long because he always takes the girls yachting and is then comfortably disillusioned. The yacht club dance at the Virginia next week will be good fun. Commodore and Mrs. Mitcheli know how to give these affairs and invitations are eagerly sought.

The San Gabriel Country Club is to have another dance next Saturday, It has given a decided social fillip to that club since the Erasmus Wilsons moved out there. They gave a fascinating dinner dance at the club last week and are always taking parties of guests.

TO VISIT LOS ANGELES.

M ANY a time and oft the lords and ladies of creation in our effete East have decided that Washington city is a fecund and fertile field for the cultivation and devalorment of the cultivation and development of female beauty.

One of the newspapers of that city, collaborating with papers in other cities, undertook to find the most beautiful girl in Washington, and to give to her, in a company of other beauties a free trip to California, its exposi-

The most beautiful girl in Washington is 21 years of age. She was graduated by the Academy of the Immaculate Conception in 1912, after having attended the course of the academy for ten years. She is a brunette with fair skin, large and dark eyes, and her demeanor is very modest and retiring.

Mrs. William M. Garland and a long list of hostesses are to foster the real estate feminine contingent's festivities, and from the elaborate functions in the planning, the wives, daughters and sweethearts of delegates are to be given such a welcome that they will want to stay right on.

On Monday, the 21st inst. a luncheon is to be given them at the Los Angeles Country Club, with covers for fully 500—this while the men are concerned over their matters of import down town.

concerned over their matters of import down town.

But on the 23rd comes the one big affair—a moonlight dancing party, when all Chester place and the Edward L. Doheny's grounds will be thrown open, and dancing on the laws and down the smooth asphalt drives and walks will prevail, a lacarnival. Part of St. James Park may also be utilized.

A midsummer evening in Los Angeles, with tropical, verdant foliage and shrubs and flowering trees and borders, palms and ferns for a setting, and cooler climatic conditions than Seattle enjoys! That is the is the boast the local real estate men made to secure for their home city the big convention, and that is just what they are going to produce. And more. They are arranging for a wonderful electrical illumination which will introduce to not only the visitors, but all of us, new color effects. Lights are to be strung throughout beautiful Chester place into a myriad of twinkling heavens overhead, and wonderful music and flowers and fruits and dancers are, like Aladdin's magic, to enter a scheme never to be forgotten.

No more pleasant meeting of the Garden Grove Parliamentary Club has been held than that at which Mr. and Mrs. William Mills were host and hostess recently. The study of the evening was most efficiently conducted by Nathaniel Carmichael in the midst of a cheerful environment, the house being decked artistically with beautiful flowers. The social hour following the study period was made extremely entertaining with lively conversation and piano and violin numbers, given by Miss Myra Swall and David Carmichael. Delectable refreshments were later served. Miss Evanalia Mills assisting the hostess in this hospitable feature of the evening.

CARNIVAL DE CHANSON in col-orful and tuneful numbers marked the close of activities for the Monday Afternoon Club of ladies on Monday evening, and was attended by a big crowd of merrymakers. The evening included a series of tableaux representing various phases of American history, as prepared by Miss Lilian Douglas and Mrs. Goordon Douglas, which was interesting and unique. A Spanish scene was enlivened by the introduction of Miss Machada of Santa Monica, who danced a number of exquisite figures, attricted in a Spanish heirloom that dated back 100 years. Mrs. A. P. Kerckhoff, Mrs. Charles Griffiths and Mrs. Ben S. Thorpe arranged this programme. An Irish programme was arranged by Mrs. Philleo and Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner, which featured eight girls in costume. An oriental harem scene was prepared by Mrs. George W. Fox and Mrs. The programme was arranged by Mrs. George W. president, Mrs. James Krouser, her successor for next year, Mrs. Joseph Hummel, and four past presidents. The tables were prettily decorated with sweet peas. Mrs. Krouser was presented with a handsome floral basket by her Executive Board, and bouquets of sweet peas, tied with pink tulle, were given to the others at her table. Following an elaborate luncheon, the members adjourned to the home of Mrs. S. Rummelsburs, where, amid a profusion of golden marigolds, an afternoon of cards was enjoyed, the prize winners being Mrs. Rudolph Beck and Mrs. James Krouser.

In honor of the newly-elected president of the Monday Club, Mrs. Joseph Hummel, this year's president, Mrs. James Krouser, entertained the members of the Executive Board at luncheon Friday. Poppies, the club flower, were used in the decorations and place cards. Covers were laid for six.

These are the most important sales of the year-judging not only by the magnitude, but by the extraordinary values.

When Swelldom announces a sale of $23, $27 to $33 Suits at $15, you may depend upon it that is an event of more than passing importance.

> To attempt a description of these garments would mean running the gamut of all that is good in fabrics and fashion. SWELLDOM has never offered values nearly as good-a statement which should be sufficient to make our Third Floor the Mecca of many women tomorrow.

-and to make the occasion of still greater interest, 100 splendid Coats will be very specially priced at $13.

> Days are warm and balmy-but nights are cool, necessitating light coats for perfect comfort. This offering of 100 smart coats is a most timely event-an economical one, too, when you consider the low price we have placed on these wonderfully fine garments.

Portrait of Miss Del Valle. Guy Rose has just finished, at his studio in Alhambra, a remarkable portrait of Miss Lucretia Del Valle in the character of Signora Josefa Yorba, the part which she is giving in "The Mission Play" at San Gabriel, and which she has been rendering for several seasons. Frank Vincent Du Mond, an intimate friend of Guy Rose, saw the portrait on a flying viet white and which she has been rendering for several seasons. Frank Vincent Du Mond, an intimate friend of Guy Rose, saw the portrait on a flying visit while on his way home to New York from his labors at the exposition in San Francisco, and declared it to be one of the most unique and original conceptions he had ever seen.

He might have added—and probably did—that it was also one of the most beautiful. The charming young actress wears the quaint gray silk gown and the rose-colored flowered shawl that she uses in her part in the theater. She is posed seated against the wall of the old mission, exactly as she appears in the play. The garish stage lights have been thrown upon her, thus giving to face, figure and costume the correct theatrical effects. And yet the picture is in no other sense theatrical, for the pose is quiet, the expression unforced, the color full of rich harmonies—though of course they are not the colors that you see in sunlight.

The problem of painting such a portrait offered numerous difficulties, and some of them seemed insurmountable. Yet Guy Rose met and solved them all. It was impossible to pursue the painting in the theater, because, while there was plenty of light on the sitter, there was none on the canvas, So the artist made a few preliminary sketches, then brought the work to his studio, getting the desired lights with a kerosene lamp or two placed behind the reflecen porch, thus obtaining the necessary light on his canvas.

The result has more than justified his efforts. The portrait is undoubted divertible of the refinement without the sacrifice of strength.

The portrait is a notably beautiful thing. It will be exhibited for two

We call particular attention to the completeness of our Redfern stock.

Any requirement can be met here as to material or model. A very large number of models in coutille priced $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 and $5.00 are shown. The collection of silks and Broche in white or pink is very unusual in variety and quality and design.

Do you wish your corset Laced-front or Laced-back? You have a choice in the Redfern line, for we have both. The development of the Laced-front corset by the builders of Redferns has been accomplished in a remarkably short time, but with most satisfactory results Redferns priced $3 to $25.

Wash a pair of "cut price" silk glove then a pair of Kauser's. The difference in their appearance after one washing will show you why there are more Kayser gloves worn than all other silk gloves

THE SAFE WAY TO WASH SILK GLOVES Use only cold water and any pure soap. Rinse well and wring out in a towel but do not twist. Pull lengthwise, turn inside out and lay flat to dry. Do not hang up and never let a hot from touch them

Charles Carroll Glover, president of the Riggs National Bank, which has been largely in the public eye of late, and which claims that the government is persecuting it, began his business life at the age of 16 as clerk in a Washington book store at a salary of less than $1 a week. In 1886, in his nineteenth year, he gave up bookselling to become a clerk for George W. Riggs, founder of the present financial institution. It was for years a private banking house. At the age of 27 Glover, became a pariner, and through his ability the bank grew to its present proportions. Now Charles Glover is several times a millionaire and one of the most influential men in this country. For many years he labored with Congress for an appropriation to reclaim the Potomac flats at Washington, and finally succeeded, with the result that 700 acres were drained and converted into a beautiful park. He is also given credit for the thought which gave the country the emergency currency law.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

A FAT HEROINE.

DIANTHA. By Juliet Wilbor Tompkina. The Century Company, New York.

Diantha, emerging from a chrysalls of fat, is more beautiful than her airy, fairy, selfish twin sister and weds the man Sylvia wants. Indeed, the reduction of corpulency is the pivotal situation in this, which the author has attempted with no shining success to make a beautiful romance. The story is a variation of the "usly duck." The story is a variation of the "ugly duck-ling" fable—but plain, timid, patient, fat Diantha, even while she looks like a well-fed indian squaw, wins the heart of the brilliant young explorer who, obviously with extreme-ly poor taste, tells her that he doesn't like

But Diantha, in addition to being fat, is rather stupid. When the brilliant explorer writes her, puts it down in black and white writes her, puts it down in black and white over his signature, that he loves her and wants her to share his life, she fancies that, though he proposes to her, he loves Sylvia.

The brilliant young explorer, without a definite answer to his letter, goes off into the wilds of some place or other where only courageous explorers like himself go, and Diantha becomes ill. A wise physician who knows that "fat is often a sign of disease" works a miracle and Diantha rises from her sick bed to dim the beauty of her greatly sick bed to dim the beauty of her greatly admired sister.

The ugly duckling comes into her own—or rather comes into Sylvia's own suitors as rather comes into Sylvia's own suitors as well as a few new ones. The rich aunt suddenly becomes aware that Diantha has been slighted all these many years and very impolitely compares Diantha's beauty to the disparagement of Sylvia's before the latter. Further inquiry into this piffie discloses that Sylvia, though there has not been one word of love or anything that resembles it between them, is firmly convinced that the brilliant young explorer will marry her when he returns. The brilliant young explorer returns and—since he lied, as all men do who say they don't like pretty women—is very happy to find Diantha lighter of weight and glorious of face.

ABOARD A WINDJAMMER.

THE LADY AFT. By Richard Matthews Hallet Small, Maynard & Co., Boston. RICHARD MATTHEWS HALLETT makes his initial bow as a novelist in "The Lady Aft." For our part, we hope that he will lose no time in bowing again. He has written a sea story far superior to many that have been highly praised and long remembered a real story nothing ford with that have been highly praised and long re-membered, a real story, nothing florid with love nor puffing with excitement, but strong with the psychology of the fo'c'sle—a study of rough men and their childish moods, the heroism of the inconsequential, for be it known that any plece of gear on a wind-jammer is of more importance than the sea-man who handles it.

There is more romance, hard work and danger in a square yard of sail than in the whole leviathan bulk of the steam-driven ship; but windjammers are fast leaving th snip; but windjammers are last leaving the seas; their day is done. So when the "stiff," who was a lawyer's clerk, ships aboard the hooker bound around the Horn from New York, he finds himself a greenhorn among veterans. First of all, the little redeyed cations for being bos'un, and the stiff ac-quires sea manners and a sore head at the cations for being bos un, and the same time.

The stiff is the only name by which we know the hero; and the stiff, throughout the seven seas, is a green foremast hand—a rooky, cub, tenderfoot and landlubber rolled into one poor, bedeviled body.

The lady aft, capricious, elusive daughter of the big, silent square-lawed captain, breaks the conventional barrier between fo'c'sie and quarter-deck to gird the stiff, telling him he'll never make port and other dreary remarks calculated to make his heart heavy as ballast. That is the key to the young lady aft. All her life she's been at sea, impotent, helpless, ever under the watchful eyes of her stern father. She longs to torment the men, and furtively plays her little futile game. The men, incensed at her very beauty, lament her presence aboard the ship, gossiping and scolding childishly among themselves.

MAGYAR ROMANCE.

MAGYAR ROMANCE.

A BRIDE OF THE PLAINS. By Baroness Oresy. George H. Doran Company, New York.

B ARONESS ORCZY has no doubt disappointed many of her admirers by writing a better story than usual. The plot isn't a series of complications bloodily prodding the jaded interest into eager attention. In fact, there isn't much of a plot, though toward the last enough of one develops to give the inveterate fiction-chaser a gratifying thrill. We fancy some who rejoiced over "The Laughing Cavalier," "Unto Caesar" and the "The Scarlet Pimpernell" will decide that "A Bride of the Plains" is a bit slow.

cide that "A Bride of the Plains" is a bit slow.

The plot, fragile indeed for the Baroness Orcsy, is hopelessly melodramatic when plucked from its setting and scrutinized. A noble young man loves a beautiful girl; the noble young man goes away for many years and it is reported that he is dead; a sinister, ugly, wicked rich man wants the girl, and her poor unlovely parents force her into an Ugly, wicked rich man, even on the eve of bia wedding sneaks to meet a bad but good looking young woman. Ugly, wicked rich rian gets into a bad mess—and love and youth and honest love are triumphant as they have ever been since the first romancer roun the delicious lie about beauty and youth and honest love always winning out.

So much for the skeleton of the story. One forgets its commonplace features in the spirited style, vivid descriptions and forceful sympathy which unfold the lives of the Hungarian peasantry in the village of Marosfalva. With all the melodrama, it is an intensely human story. And after all Life is melodramatic, disagreeably so; Life stubbornly refuses to observe the rules of technic prescribed by literary arbiters. But novelists are stubborn at their peril. elists are stubborn at their peril.

The Baroness shows the hearts of her people, their dread of the military commissioner and the service away off in Bosnia; she makes real the painful subjugation endured by wives and children; also makes real and vivid the love of pleasure, the holiday merry-making, the dancing. And as for the characters of the book—Klara Goldstein, with her sly wickedness; Elsa, the patient and beautiful, joyful in her dozen colored cotton petticoats and the wild, free native dances; Bela (though maliciously disfigured dances; Bela (though maliciously disfigured by the author) is an excellent villain, brutal and selfish; Andor, the handsome and just. All of these are drawn with consistency, highly colored, but interesting.

man's fault as a novelist is in his emo-tional stress, a stress that at times closely resembled rafting, the futile fury of exasperation. "Jim" is sober, calm, yet an intense story, a pitiless analysis of the faithless wife who seeks a divorce and the faithless friend who helps her lie to get it, then becomes her husband.

As for Jim-he is the former husband, and strangely effective is his position in the book. Though the titular character, we never meet him; he never comes out of the background. But we know that Edith wants to leave him because she thinks he is a failure as an artist, and that Charles Vanaman is a success as an inventor. Besider Vanaman's father is wealthy and the fathe story is told with masterly reserve and pre-cision; the characters are drawn with re-markable ability and sustained with flawless markable ability and sustained with flawless touch right down to the pathetic, ridiculous, yet tragic, ending.

Edith is an exceptional, an extraordinary woman—true to life as a photograph—unscrupulous, but evasive; timidly evil, justifying herself at every turn, and doing it with a clever show of right. The radical faddists, whom Mr. Kaufman satirically blends into the right of the right of the results. into the developments of the plot, offer in-termittent amusement in a book that is oth-erwise grim with realism. It is truly an American novel, accurate, too; one deserving of attention in current literature, and writ-ten with an art and strength unusual and admirable.

KITTENISH HEROINE AND WAR.

THE SPLENDID CHANCE. By Mary Hast Bradley. D. Appleton & Co., New York. A SENTENCE on the slip-cover gives us to understand that Mary Hastings Bradley has written "The Splendid Chance" out of the fullness of her experiences behind the battle lines in France There—we are supposed to understand—saw war at first hand, inspected live hero and dead ones; beard the distant roar guns, perhaps; also perhaps peered at the great holes left in the ground by the bar-barous Teutonic shells, thereby gathering material ("copy" it is called among novelists) for a great romance.

It is well that the explanatory note appears, else in our state of unsophistication refuses to marry a wealthy young suitor of German extraction and moves into Paris to study art. The first half of the story dawdles along to show how the love between Capt. Edgerton and the kittenish Katherine develops into a sincere affair. Also she comes into a close acquaintanceship with Robert MacNare, a prominent sculptor, and in her ignorance almost ruins her reputa-tion by being too friendly with a girl who goes on vacations with young men-chaperoned. Bang! War comes. A whitewashing of how France and Paris were affected by the outbreak. Bang, again! Capt. Edgerton and the English come to save France; in the fight that follows, Katherine—who has dropped her kittenish ways—saves his life. Bang! Soon afterward she comes to his rescue again, but too late. In a scene evidently meant to be heart-breaking the captain dier—all of which goes to show that death is not necessarily tragic nor forceful; it is the power behind the pen. Then Scriptor MacNare can't feel like a man until he goes out and does a little fighting, after which he wins Katherine.

A RELIGIOUS ROMANCE.

AUGUST FIRST. By Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews and Roy Irving Murray. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. ARY RAY MOND SHIPMAN ANDREWS M ARY RATMOND and should know better than to write such a story as "August than to write such a story as "August First"; Roy Irving Murray is presumably young and unsophisticated as well as unknown and perhaps is not aware that "August First" was constructed by an ancipulation of the print, plastered with platitudinous moralizing, and carries a plot so obvious it is needless to read more than a third of the way. We did, however, read all the way because it did not seem possible that the plot could be so transparent, so trite.

A young girl comes to a handsome young

A young girl comes to a handsome young clergyman and tells him that she is think-ing of killing herself; that she is incurably ill; that she is is oh, so very rich; that she doesn't care for her flance and that the young clergyman may write to her as "Aurust First.'

Of course, he tells her all about what a gift from God her life is; he writes a strong, religious letter which she confesses overwhelms her. Letters are exchanged until the clergyman is desperately in love with this incurably ill maiden whom he has seen

What is the obvious ending? This: She what is the obvious ending? This: She gets cured, her fiance relieves her, the clergyman knows some people who know her and—"happily ever after," etc. But first the clergyman proves himself a hero—tumbles before an automobile, saves a child, and of course is greatly admired by all friends and worshiped by the maiden who more than once refers to the fact that the contract of the c ce refers to the fact that she is very realthy.

Idyllic? Spiritual? Tender? Perhaps. If anything so utterly commonplace, so closely resembling the insipid romanticism of Sunday-school fiction can be idyllic, spiritual, tender, sweet, then "August First" may be. But with all due respect to Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews's previous and excellent work, it is not otherwise than truthful to say that this is amateurishly conceived and

ent. This short story, true and of a Red Cross flag, doesn't amount to much perhaps, but some way it grips, it reaches the heart. One has to be watchful or it will dampen the eyes. But then there is no shaws it but one has to be watchful of it will dampen the eyes. But then there is no shame in being sentimental over "In Hoc Vince"; it is a true story; it sounds true; Mrs. Barclay assures us it is true—that is, she assured King Albert of Belgium that the story was true when she offered it as a contribution to

"King Albert's Book."
It is simply told; splendid from point of technic as a short story, and one may easily read it in thirty minutes. A young British officer was ordered to round up stragglers in a small town during the retreat of the allied forces from Mons. Shells were falling allied forces from Mons. Shells were falling on all sides; the invaders were coming nearer and nearer. The young officer came upon a municipal building temporarily con-verted into a hospital; scores of wounded and dying lay helpless upon the floor. The shells were coming thicker and thicker, but the wounded were being reassured that the hospital was safe.

the wounded were being reassured that the hospital was safe.
But at the first opportunity the nurse whispered to the young officer: "There's a flagstaff and cord all complete; but no flag. Do you understand? No Red Cross flag." With sheets and with plns, and by dipping bandages in the blood pools on the floor the flag was made. "German shells were failing to right and left; but above the hospital flew the Red Cross flag, brave in the breeze, bright in the glow of the sunset; and the bright in the glow of the sunset; and the wounded lay beneath, sheltered by the crim-son of their own life-blood."

That is dramatic, but more dramatic still is this simple, eloquent notice at the end of the book: "F.D.B. Killed in action October 21, 1914. (A few weeks after the making of the Red Cross flag.)"

He exclaims with plous accents: "I take my stand exactly upon the policy of Jesus, I contend that the policy of 'force behind righteousness' has caused all the devilitry of nations." During our Sunday-school period we learned that Jesus used violent force upon occasion, that he scorned to be a pacifist in the temple from which he gloriously flogged the money changers. Perhaps the Rev. Frank Crane thinks Jesus did wrong.

A VOLUME OF CONFESSIONS.

NE MAN. By Robert Steels. Mitchell Renneries

New York.

A S A USUAL thing confessions are disgusting; that is, if they are worth confessing. It has become quite a literary art in itself to confess. St. Augustine led off with a voluminous account of his sins and ecstasies; Rousseau anticipated the modern fashion of shamelessly confessing to more wickedness than one man could comfortably commit. Marie Bashkirtseff told all about how it felt to be a young woman of passion; Jack London floundered through two or three volumes of alleged more or less disgraceful experiences; Will Levington Comfort has bared much that more or less disgraceful experiences; Will Levington Comfort has bared much that were better forgotten—at least unpa-raded. There have been big and little con-fessors, arrogant, bold, dogmatic confes-sors proud of their shame, and timid little confessors, obviously hoping to gain pity and avenathy.

Now comes one Robert Steele, temporarily unknown to fame, with a confession called "One Man." It is one of the few confessions we have ever seen that seemed wholly honest and entirely lacking in self-consciousness. Outside of a few remarks relative to mistreatment received at the hands of his father, Steele doesn't commiserate himself or seek to transfer blame for a life—his own—completely lacking in the ntegral virtues.

He became a thief almost intuitively, and had remarkable success for a youngster at stealing. With an utter lack of moral sense, he forged checks and skillfully, but stealing. With an utter lack of moral sense, he forged checks and skillfully, but heartlessly, imposed on chance acquaintances and friends. A prison snapped him up and he came out no better. The naivet with which he confesses to stealing, to robbing employers, filching from friends is remarkable; but not so remarkable as his shameless recital of other and many shameful experiences. Yet, some way, one doesn't feel that a sense of shame belongs to the author—the reality of the confessions is not questioned; it is intense at times, but he does not seem contaminated by his own wickedness.

Some may think it brutal, vulgar; others, and we among them, do not find it pleasant or enjoyable: but all who know something of life as it is lived below the social crust—lived in secret, in the darkened places where furtive shadows pass—know that Robert Steele has written the truth, has thrust the mirror right up against the hairy warts, bleary eyes and red, pimpled nose of life. And it is something magnificent at any time to write the truth—pleasant or unpleasant, in science, theology or literature, it is to the truth that men pay homage.

FOR CALIFORNIA RAMBLERS. ON SUNSET HIGHWAYS: A Book of Motor Rambles in California. By Thomas D. Murray. The Page Company, Boston.

R. MURRAY is an expert on selecting rambles for a motor; previous books by him are "British Highways and Byways from a Motor Car," "In Unfamiliar England with a Motor Car," "On Old World Highways" and "Three Wonderlands of the American West." With the experience behind him necessary to have written those books, it means something decidedly complimentary that in his latest volume he should emphatically designate California as "a motor paradise."

He says: "Southern California is easily the motorist's paradise over all other places on this mundane sphere." He praises highly the Automobile Club of Southern California and points out how effective have been its R. MURRAY is an expert on sel efforts to make both roads and regulations desirable for the motorist.

Mr. Murray latest volume is a rather stout book, attractively printed and bound, beautifully illustrated (sixteen full-page illustrations in color and forty duogravures.) which point out for the motorist the more desirable scenic rambles. Prefatorily he says: "I do not pretend in this modest volume to have covered everything worth while in this vast State; neither have I chosen routes so difficult as to be inaccessible to the ordinary motor tourist. I have not attempted a guide motor tourist. I have not attempted a guide book in the usual sense; my first aim has been to reflect by description and picture something of the charm of this favored

It is much more than a guide book "in the usual sense"; it is more like a book of travel in which are given instructions and direction necessary for those who wish to follow. His routes extend over practically all that the routes extend over practically all that the ordinary motor tourist would especially wish to see, excepting in the extreme northern part of the State. What is more, he has revealed interesting trips new to the average, California motorist—surprising as it may be, perhaps, when it is said that the Californian lives in his car and cafeteria.

The routes given meander from San Diego, round about Los Angeles, upward along the Coast to San Francisco, on to San Joaquin and Sacramento, and back through the interior.

It is a handsome book; the descriptions are as attractive as the pictures, the guiding instructions are explicit, and Native Sons as well as visiting motorists will find it valuable and interesting. Also it allows Californians to enlarge themselves with Justifiable pride in the elegant and aincere tributes paid to the State—for it has been no easy matter to make the highways so delightful to the motorist as Mr. Murray found them.

EDEN PHILLPOTTS'S GARDEN.

In "My Shrubs" (John Lane Company,) Eden Philipotts describes his success with shrubs and "trees that will preserve their shrubby dimensions." Fifty excellent illustrations from photographs serve to show that the distinguished novelist has coaxed some rare tributes from the hand of nature.
Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Philipotts has written most of the book in the attractive style that has won him admirers, much of it is entirely too technical for the appreciation of any but gardeners as advanced as himself. He admits an interest in "the names that it has pleased man to bestow upon the works of nature" and has madeconsiderable use of Latin nomenclature.
Though decidedly caviar for the general,
"My Shrubs" is a book to delight the shrub fancier, and the illustrations will be pleasing to any lover of flowers.

Edwin Bjorkman has been engaged ever since his recent return from abroad on the translations of three plays by Arthur. Schnitzler. He has just delivered the manuscript to Mitchell Kennerley, who will publish this important edition to his Modern. Drama Series later this season.

After supper comes one of the best parts of the entire day. This is the time when some of the very liveliest baseball games are played; tennis and handball, horse-shoe pitching, leap frog, dare-base and all manner of games that try one's muscle and develop one's skill. There are games to suit both big and little fellows and everybody is happy.

Then it's time to dress for the evening. This in general means doffing the easy-go-lucky clothes of the day, the putting on of clean collars or shirts—generally sprucing up a bit—and then the jaunt to the neart of Avalon and enjoyment of the famous band concerts. The smaller boys find their way back to their comfortable cots soon thereafter—for they are just so tired that bed never felt as good before. The older lads mingle in the parade and the general recreations of the island city, and then every one of them hikes out for camp. All must be in camp by 9:30 o'clock and lights go out at 10.

the balance of the week from present indications.

F. M. Kuebler, the Pullman car conductor, who invested largely in the stock of the Loa Angeles Investment Company, created a mild sensation yesterday by flashing a carefully prepared statement of his dealings with the company with which to "refresh his memery." As he admitted that it had been prepared about six months ago, he was not allowed to use it.

He testified that in the fall of 1913 H. D. Rodgers and Charles A. Elder, had told him that the small investors were being paid out of the Guarantee Fund, but that it might be necessary to cease such payments. He was told that it would do him no good at that time to apply for his money. The parent company was in good shape, and the raid on its stock was being engineered by enemies of the officers. He saw the defendants, Deeble and Derby, going among the excited stock-holders at the time of the raid, assuring them that there was no need for worry on the part of anybody; that the company was all right, and that the Guarantee Fund would be repienished by the sale of stock. He saw mo money pald out to anybody that day.

He said that he had been told by bergain. If you have money, address Ms. box 39s, 1922 Markes Realent Griffer, regarding choser Southern California land and water have Heems.

BCHOLARS INVOLVED.

The cross-examination in behalf of Ingold developed the fact that Kuebler had become acquainted with Ingold through a letter of introduction from a sister of Kuebler's. Early in 1310 Ingold came to Los Angeles, a scholar just out of the Illinois State University at Champagne, Ill., looking for a job. He applied to the offices of the Los Angeles Investment Company, but before accepting employment, it appeared from the testimony, he inquired about the standing of the corporation. He was assured that it was all right. He began work at $10 a week and rose from one position to another, but never became a member of the board of directors. He was only an employee, and the statement was made that he invested all of his surplus money in the stock of the company. It was also shown that while Kuebler was a large holder of the stock in the company that his first investment was in May, 1910, when legold did not go to work for the company until June.

Miss Caroline Miller, a school teacher at Whittier, bought 252 shares of stock for which she paid $500 in cash, and gave her note for $470.

She, too, was told that the dividends

He was only an employee, and the statement was made that he invested all of his surplus money in the stock of the company. It was also shown that while Kuebler was a large holder of the stock in the company that his first investment was in May, 1910, when largold did not go to work for the company util June.

Miss Caroline Miller, a school teacher at Whittier, bought 252 shares of stock for which she paid $500 in the strait-jacket.

Miss Caroline Miller, a school teacher at Whittier, bought 252 shares of stock for which she paid $500 in the cash, and gave her note for $470. She, too, was told that the dividends would pay the note, but she never got anything out of the investment. Miss of Miller could not identify the man with whom she had her dealings at the Hill street office of the Los Angeles Investment Company, the efforts of District Attorney Schoonovar to soften the heart and resolution of prison fare.

SHORT CUT TO GLENDALE

NE of the most interesting public improvement projects now being considered in Los Angeles is the proposed "air line" automobilboulevard between this city and Glendale. The plan, which is being advocated by an organization known as the Los Angeles-Glendale Boulevard Association, is attracting a great deal of attention and has been indorsed by leading civic bodies. Its proponents claim for the scheme that it is one of the most feasible and inexpensive highway enterprises of really major importance ever launched in Los Angeles

Following, as it would, the lines of dedicated streets from the orthern end of Lake Shore avenue to the edge of the Los Angeles River, the proposed new highway link, it is pointed out, could be created without the necessity for expensive condemnation proceedings for a right of way. The cost of grading and paving, it is declared, would not be excessive by comparison with other projects of similar nature. Even the proposed bridging of the river to carry the highway to the end of Brand boulevard south of Tropico could, it is asserted by the proponents of the plan, he accomplished without great expense.

By way of practical benefits to be derived, it is shown that the route would mean a saving of about 40 per cent, in the distance by automobile between a large part of Los Angeles and the Glendale district, that it would bring the lower end of the San Fernando Valley and the beautiful Verdugo Canyon and La Crescenta regions miles nearer to this city and that it would make Griffith Park really accessible to the public. Those working for the boulevard also call attention to the fact that the proposed connecting link between Lake Shore avenue and Brand boulevard would pass through the beautiful wooded hills back of Silver Lake, thus giving Los Angeles a splendid new scenic drive ab

Where two miles of paving would save four miles of travel. The course of the projected new short cut to the Glendale district and Griffith Park is marked by the heavy doubline, the dotted portion of which represents the unimproved link between Lake Shore avenue and Brand boul vard. Three dedicated streets, Ivanhoe, Rowena and Rockaby avenues, fill in the gap as far north as the rive and these, under the plan in contemplation, would be graded and asphalted, the connection being complete by a bridge across to the southern end of Brand boulevard. The relation of the projected "air line" to existin and proposed thoroughfares is indicated on the map. The photographs reveal the scenic character of the region through which the new boulevard would pass.

The sole protection of the Imperial years the sum of the simportant factor in the statement of its instance of the wiley secure calls for two large constructive enterprises: (a) an enlargement of the Volcano Lake dam, approximately $1,000,000; (b) construction of a permanent restraining work at the point where the Colorado leaves its orginal channel and flows toward Volcano Lake, estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $2,300.

These constructions are too vast the direction of Brig.-Gen. Marshall, retired chief of United States Army Engineers, consulting engineer for the Interior Department.

C. R. Rockwood, chief engineer of the irrigation district, was actively in charge, and Thomas J. Hind of the Southers Pacific engineer staff was superintendent of construction. Gen. Marshall pronounced it one of the best pieces of levee work in the United States. There never was any estimate of a million dollars for enlargement of the levee. The irrigation district and the United States put up $100,000 each, and the joint fund was expended by government engineers for revetment of levees on the old river and for raising the Volcano levee, the latter work costing about $80,000. GOVERNMENTS BUSINESS.

All Colorado River engineers agree GOVERNMENT'S BUSINESS.

All Colorado River engineers agree that the river should be returned to its old bed and confined to an efficient hydraulic channel below Yuma, and as most of the work must be done in Mexico, it is obviously the proper business of the United States government. The government made an attempt to do that in 1911, but its engineer rejected the advice of evperienced river men, delayed his work until the flood season, spent $650,000 and made an utter failure.

The present situation in the Voltestants in The Times Educa-tional Contest. Tomorrow and Tuesday, up to the very hour of midecome winners of the six special ash rewards to be distributed next tremely busy the past week with school' closing, examinations, etc. That makes it all the more favorable moment you have a fine chance to be one of the winning six.

Again comes the publication today of the vote standing of contestants. This is always of deep interest to contestants and their great circle of friends. The relative positions today have not changed so materially as in some of the previous counts; yet they are full of interest.

Some of the contestants are hovering so very closely to the list of the "Big Thirty-four" that their friends are watching closely to see them step over the bounds. A little more effort would do the trick.

Some of the lower scorers have made advances that are very encouraging. Others are certain to advance rapidly, now that schools are closing and there will be more time available for the campaign.

Here's a prediction: The vote score to be published one week from today will show such changes in vote standing that it will be really exciting. The manager of The Times Educational Contest knows of several of the candidates who already have mapped out for themselves some very lively campaigns from this time forward until the contest closes, the last of July. Even the lowest vote scorers in the list have the opportunity before them of marching right forward into the charmed circle to include the thirty-four winners of scholarships. It is the steady work that will count when the final tale is told. From this time forward the vote score will become more and more the magnet drawing attention of Times readers. The work during the ensuing week will be an important factor in the final results.

PIONEER RAISIN PACKER PASSES.

BRIEF ILLNESS ENDS ACTIVE BUSINESS CAREER.

E. G. Chaddock, Well Known Titroughout California, Helped Build up the San Joaquin Valley Fruit Industry More than Twenty street, after an illness lasting but a 2,000 few days. While he was of advanced years, his death will be a shock to a large circle of friends in this city and 2.780 throughout the State.

Venice 2.000 Mr. Chaddock had resided in Los stitution living in Southern California.

Born near Attica, N. T., in 1839, Mr. Chaddock graduated from Hillsdale College in 1865, after which he took a theological course at Andover Theological Seminary.

Entering the ministry, he occupied pulpits at Lawrence, Mass., Union City, Mich., Weliffeet, Mass., Manistee, Mich., Alton, Hl., Hinsdale, Il., and Fresno, Cal.

Having earlier in life determined to leave the ministry while still in his prime, he entered a life of active business in 1888, engaging in raisin packing at Fresno, then in its infancy, and with his two sons formed the firm of Chaddock & Co., later incorporated, which firm has always been an important factor in the raisin industry of the State.

He was active in affairs of business up to the time of his death and but a few days before had returned in apparent health from a trip to Fresno and Shar Francisco.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Ella Thomson Chaddock; two sons, J. L. Chaddock, Fresno, and three daughters, Mrs. Grace Stenger, Chicago; Mrs. Marion C. Bruner, Los Angeles, and Miss Gertrude Chaddock, also of Los Angeles, and two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Olney, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Albina R. Spring of Attica, N. Y.

For Man Who Killed III

C. Carter, who committed su Friday afternoon at his home, 205 East Avenue Forty, will be ducted tomorrow afternoon a c'cleck in the Boothe & Fitch ch

Friends and relatives yesterday denied the police report that Mr. Carter had been a melancholy man. To the contrary, they stated that until a month ago he had been the most jovial of companions. May 13 he was struck by a trolley car at Passadena avenue and Avenue Thirty-nine. Since then he had been critically ill.

Mr. Carter shot himself with the old army pistol that had not been used since his father carried it during the civil War. His nephew was present at the time, and struggled with the man, trying to get possession of the gun. Mr. Carter was 43 years old, He leaves a widow and one son. Elmo Carter, 12 years old. He and his wife came to Los Angeles twenty years ago. He belonged to the Massonic fraternity and was extremely popular with his many intimates. His jovial disposition caused everyone who came in contact with him to remember his happy smile.

NEW ENGLAND PICNIC.

Former Residents of Northeast Region Will Celebrate Fourth the Fifth.

The New England Society of Southern California will hold a patrictic celebration and basket picule at Sycamore Grove July 5. All interested are welcome. Special invitations are extended to all former residents of New England and their families, descendants and guests.

From 10 to 12 oclock in the morning a social visit will be held. At noon lunch will be eaten. This will be followed by speaking and general picule festivities.

The organization holds its second meeting of the year on the Fourth of July. The Fourth coming on Sunday this year, it was postponed to the next day.

Short Cut to Glendale.

Southward from Glendale through Tropico, the advisability of bridging the river and carrying that fine thoroughfare on through to Lake Shore avenue has since the last agistation for the through route, been widened and paved as far as Effe grident from Eire Trom Effe street. From Effe street trom to the point where it ends abruptly in the Edendale hills, Lake Shore now has a width of 140 feet from property line to property line, and is perfectly leveel. Proceedings have already been started for the paving of this part of the thoroughfare.

At the other end of the proposed new highway route the progress southward of Brand boulevard has been equally marked. to the morthern boundary of Los Angeles several months ago. The far-seeing owners of the Angelus Park, Angelus, Atwater and Gleinhurst residence tracts, just within the northerh confines of Los Angeles, are now doing the rest. These owners, pooling their interests, have dedicated a 140-foot right of way to carry Brand boulevard straight south through the holdings to the edge of the river and are now putting in paving, curbs, sidewalks and electrollers at their own expense.

Brand boulevard, when completed, will end at a point on the northbann of heaver restriction of a bridge paralleling

The proponents of the new highway urge that it would constitute an invaluable link in a comprehensive boulevard system such as has long been dreamed of by the city planners. Even as all roads in the Glendale district lead to Brand boulevard, so do many of the leading arteries of travel in Los Angeles connect with Lake Shore avenue.

SCENIC HIGHWAY.

SCENIC HIGHWAY.

As a scenic highway, the portion of the proposed Los Angeles-Glendale route lying between Lake Shore avenue and Brand boulevard would have a charm all its own. Ivanhoe avenue extends for a considerable part of its length through hills covered with giant eucalyptus, and skirta, the shores of Silver Lake Reservoir, the city's largest and most beautiful body of water. The beauty of this particular region will be still further enhanced when the thousands of trees planted by the Park Commission all over the sloping hills around the lake have attained their growth.

Rowena avenue strikes a level grade through rolling green hills and rows of eucalyptus trees. Rockaby avenue dips down through groves of huge live oaks to the river's edge. Trees studded hills form the setting for Woodstock avenue from Ivanhoe Station to Griffith Park.

The Los Angeles-Glendale Boulevard Association is composed of representative citizens and property cwners of north and northwest Los Angeles. Tropico, Glendale and the San Fernando Valley. The officers are A. M. Brooks, president; F. E. Johnson, vice-president; Stephen Veselich, secretary, and Geo. B. Woodbury, treasurer.

The first step in the formal launching of the proposed inter-city boulevard project was taken last week when the association, as a preliminary to definite action, asked the City Council of Los Angeles to erase the names Ivanhoe, Rowens and Rockaby avenues from the maps and to call the three under the single name of Glendale boulevard. At a meeting held last Thursday the association voted to petition the Council at once to build a bridge from Ivanhoe Station to the end of Brand boulevard. Estimates of grading and paving costs are now being prepared for submission to the Council by Mr. Veselich.

Branch and district managers, department managers and other employees who are stockholders have a different feeling toward the company, knowing they are part of it and more than merely employees. Much of Goodyear success and initiative at home and abroad are attributed to the fact that Goodyear men of conspicuous ability and loyalty are stockholders and feel that they are working for themselves as well as for their employers. Mutual interests and responsibilities are thus safeguarded.

The Goodyear company, did a gross business of nearly $23,000,000 in 1914, and is now busier than at any other stage of its existence.

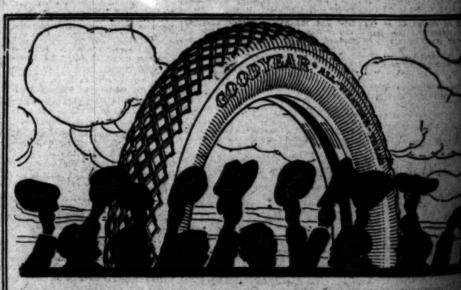

THE NEW ONE.

THE NEW ONE.

"The Six of '16" just announced by the Mitchell factory of Racine, is creating much comment and discussion in automobile circles. The striking feature of this new model to the casual observer is the remarkable value apparent at a glance. While this is a light six, it should in no way be confused with the average six-cylider cars in its range.

Goodyear Fortified Tires Cost Users $5,000,000 Less

This year's price reduction—made February 1st—was due to lower cost of materials and our larger output. It will save Goodyear users, judged by current output, about five million dollars this year.

And that, remember, was our duction in two years. The three t

Goodyear Extras Cost Us $1,635,000

Goodyear Fortified Tires embody many extras. That's why we call them Fortified. Five of those extras are costly features found in no other tire. The rest are quality extras which few makers employ.

If we omitted them all, we could save on this year's probable output $1,635,000. We could add that much to our profits. Yet Goodyear tires would appear to be just as good as now.

Users Would Pay

If we did that, Goodyear users would lose in tire wear many million dollars. For every ex-tra we employ adds mile-age and saves trouble.

There would be more There would be more rim-cuts, more blowouts, more loose treads. There would be less rubber, less fabric.

Yet five of those extras are used by Goodyear alone, and the rest are used by few.

small group of dealers. I was taken out on a little automobile trip. There were four cars, a Packard Twin-Six' and a '3-38,' and one of the highest-priced sixes on the market and one of the best-known 'double-fours'. We went out in the country quite a distance from the Packard factory, and each of us in turn was given au opportunity to drive all of the cars, and see for ourselves just how the Twin-Six' compared in every way with the best the other fellow was putting out and the best that Packard had produced before. Its back into their plant and into a reserve fund. This year, with a $10,-000,000 factory, a $6,000,000 reserve fund, and the greatest car their engineers have ever produced. the Packard Company has launched into quantity, high-grade production, something that has never before been done in the automobile industry. And I am perfectly confident that the results will revolutionise the high-grade automobile market.

"Already the effect of the Packard announcement has been felt in the East as is plainly shown by a tremendous reduction in the high-priced used car market. It means an entire readjustment in high-grade values, and I believe the result will be more far-reaching than that I believe it will reach the medium-priced sixes and Twin-Six' at the price announced is going to force down motor car prices all along the line."

Many prospective purchasers of Hudson cars, who have been awaiting the arrival of the new models, will welcome the opportunity to inspect this at the Harold L. Arnold sales rooms.

Chaseis, power plant and general design are practically the same as in previous models, but the body design has been materially improved.

None of those features which have proved successful and as near mechanical perfection as possible in the hands of 15,000 Hudson owners over millions of miles of roads in forty-three countries of the world, have been altered.

Howard E. Coffin and his corps of designers have produced a style of body far in advance of the stream-line type.

The new idea in body construction is known as the "yacht-line body" and is termed "the road cruiser."

The tonneau seat is considerably wider than in previous models and the upholstery has been carried to the tops of the doors. The upholstery is of enameled leather.

A new type of disappearing auxilliary tonneau seats is a distinct advantage over former styles and increases the tonneau space considerably when not in use.

A dashboard carburetor control is incorporated in the new model. A four-bow, one-man top offers advantages.

ON SPEED RUN.

Some unique performances have been recorded in a series of motor truck tests which are being made by M. S. Bulkley, chief of the local Autocar distributing forces. Two weeks ago a record run was made from Los Angeles to Redlands to show the speed with which the Autocar truck would handle a load over country roads.

Last week an Autocar truck carried a load of 3500 pounds from Redlands to Forest Home, in the mountains back of the Tucaipa Valley. It was the largest load ever taken over this mountain grade by a motor truck. It is one of the most severe tests for motor cars in Southern Californis, the grade being 27 per cent. in the last two miles. OF GOLF FINALS.

supply of the warring nations being cut off.

Horses are being killed off in great number in Europe. As a result, the United States is being called upon to meet the demands of the military service and the scarcity of horses in this country is creating a great domestic demand for trucks in localities where the horse was formerly used almost exclusively.

MORELAND'S PROPHESY.

It was under Moreland's supervision that some of the first military tests were held with the motor truck in the United States. After the first crude successes the local manufacturer predicted that the next great war would be a war of motors; and he was laughed at by many military experts at the time.

At that time, four years ago, the Moreland company was struggling for existence. A small squad of men were turning out no more than one car a month. In four years the factory has doubled its capacity four times on account of the increasing demand for trucks operating in Southern California. The sales of the company run from $100,000 to $115.000 per month and the motor truck has practically eliminated the horse in the great European war.

High School Classic. TWO WORLD RECORDS SET

UP IN PREP TRACK MRD (BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

HICAGO, June 12.—By scoring afths seconds, and insecting in two more the La Grange-Illinois track team scored a decisive victory over all comers in interscholastic meet this afternoon on Stars Field. The LaGrange runners piled up a total of 26 points, while the most their nearest opponent could gather was 13. North Central of Spokane and Rock Island, Illinois, tying for second with that number.

Four records, two of them world's marks, were hung up and two more were tied. Captain Percy Graham, leader of the University High Chicago team, set a new world's interscholastic mark in the pole vault at 12 feet 7 1-2 inches. The University half mile relay team clipped a fifth of a second off the old record for that event.

WEST SIDE.

In the tournament Miss Bjurstedt represented the West Side Tennis Club of New York, insuring the Wissahikon cup, at least, does not leave the United States.

After winning premier honors in singles, Miss Bjurstedt paired with Irving C. Wright of Boston, essayed to win the national championship in doubles, but went down to defeat before Mrs. Wightman and Harry C. Johnson, also of Boston, 6-6, 6-1.

There were many predictions that Mrs. Wightman's experience and generalship would win the singles championship again when the two experts faced each other before several thousand persons. After the first few games of the opening set, in which Miss Bjurstedt was visibly nervous and unable to do herself justice, there was no doubting her superiority.

NERVOUS.

Early in the match she was unable to get the right length on her returns, so many of them went out of court and a number of others into the net. When once she warmed to her work, however, she displayed such brilliant tennis that for the most part she left Mrs. Wightman flatfooted. In the third set, when Mrs. Wightman was feeling the effects of the previous hard-fought sets, the young Norwegiant girl's aplendid physical condition enabled her to grow stronger and stronger, while Mrs. Wightman grew more weary.

Mrs. Wightman was feeling the effects of the previous hard-fought sets, the young Norwegiant girl's aplendid physical condition enabled her to grow stronger and stronger, while Mrs. Wightman's usual court craft was very much in evidence in the first set, and time and again she forced the play to Miss Bjurstedt. That the set was exceptionally well contested is proved by the point score—37 for Mrs. Wightman and 36 for Miss Bjurstedt in the second and third sets Miss Bjurstedt played the side lines with success that was nothing short of remarkable. Always she played the ball an inch or two inside, usually finding Mrs. Wightman far away, with not a chance to make the "get."

With the score four rames to one against her in the second set Mrs. Wightman made a gallant but despairing effort to capture the match. The seven-minute rest between the second and third sets did not revive Mrs. Wightman's failing energy, for Miss Bjurstedt took the decider without the loss of a game.

in his mind, and in grouping around for it, he walked nine Angels, in reality, he pitched two games—one in trying to get the pill over the plate, and the other in trying to catch some passed guy off first base. By not getting the ball over, Bill kept himself pretty well hemmed in with trouble most of the time.

FOUR WALKS.

In the sixth the Angels got a run without a hit, four walks doing the business. Piercy deliberated every move at such length, and threw so many balls to first base, that it took no less than twenty minutes to play this half inning.

Then to complicate the situation. Bill's feet began betraying him in this round. His feet got by in great shape until that inning, and it looked like they might go through the day with a clean record. But in the sixth Brooks suddenly spotted something wrong with them, and Finney went out to investigate. Ed pointed to the feet and said somehing. Bill looked down at them, and then shook his head sadly. To save his life he can't see where they differ from the general run of feet.

with the internal gear drive rear axie, has been received by the Mack Motor Truck Company. Heretofore the only Republic model fitted with this type of axie has been the 1500-pound model. The larger truck has the Celfor axie.

Manager Jack Stoner of the local house explains that the internal gear drive for motor trucks is not to be regarded as something new or experimental. It has been in use for almost iten years, he says. He tells of the purchase of a truck of this equipment as even years ago by the Standard Oll Company. It was traded in recently when another truck was purchased, and the manufacturers determined to tear it down to ascertain its condition. The cost sheets of the Standard showed that in all the years of constant use not a cent had been expended for repairs on the rear axie, nor had a single replacement been made, while in all the truck had been driven more than 135,000 miles. Examination showed the rear axie was in such perfect condition new parts would not improve it any, and it was decided to reassemble it and let it remain in use indefinitely.

has sold a six and one-half ton Saurer truck to McLean & Doyle of Jean. Nev., for use in transporting ore between the mines and the railroad. This is the second Saurer to be put in this service within four months. The splendid showing of the first truck resulted in the sale of the second.

The two-ton Mack truck owned by Kirschner and Polakof has been engaged in hauling boxed oranges from Cucamonga to the city. On one load it carried 175 boxes, each weighing sixty-five pounds, or three times its rated capacity over the rough roads. Its owners then called on Manager Stoner to ask if such practice would damage the truck.

Georgia Peach is Only Four Hundred Hitter in Big Leagues and Leads in Thefts, Total Number of Bases and Runs Made - Detroit, Chicago and Boston Have Majority of Leading Pitchers.

(BY A, P. NIGHT WIRE.)

CHICAGO, June 12.—New batting leaders have appeared in the National and Federal leagues this week, but Cobb, still the only 400 hitter in the major circuits, continues in front in the American. Averages published here, including the games of last Wednesday in the big leagues and only those players who have participated in ten or more contests, show that Manager Thicker, despite his ill-ress which has kept him much on the side lines, is setting the pace in the side lines, is setting the National, hough Daubert, of Brooklyn at crowding him closely, The Federal League's 360 hitters with games played and averages, are:

Tinker, Chicago, 13, .375; Magee, Brooklyn 41, .374; Wastoon, Buffalo, 27, .341; McDonald, Buffalo, 28, .358; Ford, St., 19, .364; Campbell, Newark, 28, .358; Ford, Brooklyn, 46, .363; Ford, Brooklyn, 45, .368; Ford, Brooklyn, 46, .363; Ford, Brooklyn, 32, .321; Strand, Newark, 18, .302; Easterly, Kanssa City, 31, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .321; Moreonell, Chicago, 17, .324; Lantte, Brooklyn, 18, .308; Ford, Brooklyn, 48, .308; Ford, Brooklyn, 41, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .301; Saleri, Rooklyn, 41, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .301; Saleri, Rooklyn, 41, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .301; Saleri, Rooklyn, 41, .302; Easterly, Kanssa City, 38, .318; Leonox, Pittsburgh, 18, .302; Brooklyn, 41, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .301; Saleri, Rooklyn, 41, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .301; Saleri, Rooklyn, 41, .302; Easterly, Kanssa City, 31, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .304; Alexander, Pittsburgh, 18, .302; Brooklyn, 41, .304; Wilson, Chicago, 37, .304; Mary Pittsburgh, 19, .304; Chicago, and K

Frank Schallenback, the husky Hollywood twirler, pitched an excellent game and allowed but two singles. He held the Pomona batters he was the hero of the game two came in the seventh and a coup more in the eighth.

BILLIARD EVENTS.

Third prize in the Nelms Br Third prize in the Nelms Brunswick handicap combination billiard tournament went to Woodward, by virtue of his victory over Darling in playing off the tie on Friday evening. Woodward scored forty points to Thirtynine by Darling, in seventy innings. Final scores of players, and their handicapa, at the end of the regular schedule, were as follows:

Lusk (40), won 7, lost 0; Rose, (45), won 5, lost 2; Woodward (40) won 4, lost 3; Darling (50) won 4, lost 3; Montana (50) won 3, lost 4; Gaswill (45) won 3, lost 4; Randall (50) won 1, lost 6; Holladay (40) won 2, lost 6.

Zens won from Steits, by fifty balls to thirty-nine, the last game of the week in the bankers' pocket billiard tournament at the Voorhies palace, both men making nine high. The game went forty-five innings.

In the games played thus far on the first round, Zens, Joslin and Hill are credited with wins, while Pedersen, Adams and Steitz have lost one each.

Evans cut McMillan out of a chance for the upper division in the horse-shoe pocket billiard tournament by taking Friday night's game at the Nelms Brunswick parlor, on scores of seventy-five to seventy-two. McMillan was best on runs, making six as high. With only four games to be played, commencing Monday evening, the scoreboard shows the appended standing of competitors:

Clark, won 5, lost 1; Shook, won 5, lost 2; Evans, won 2, lost 3; Steele, won 3, lost 3; McMillan, won 3, lost 4; Wetmore, won 2, lost 3; Rosen, won 2, lost 4; Garner, won 1, lost 4.

As Clark and Shook are considered certain winners of first and second prizes, the interest now centers on the race for third and fourth trophies.
